IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

The local forecast for to-day is continued cold and clear weather. For Sunday clear, slightly warmer in the evening..

Observer Hagen says: Clear and cold weather generally prevails throughout the country.

The greatest fall in temperature occurred at Toledo where it fell from 22 degrees to zero. The cold condition in the northwest still continues. The temperature ranging from 22 to 26 degrees below zero. The latter at Winnipeg. The 10 degrees below zero line includes Montana, Minnesota and Northern Dakota. The zero line extends from Sault Ste. Marie south to Toledo and west to the Rocky mountains. The highest temperature in the United Statesis 58 degrees above at Galveston. The lowest is 22 degrees below at St. Vincent, Minn.

Cold weather may be expected for two days at least. The warmest here yesterday was 24 degrees, the lowest this morning was zero. The temperature in Florida has risen, but there will be a fall to-night that will have a bad effect on the growing crops.

For Ohio—Generally fair; slightly colder; west winds.

For Indiana and Illinois—Generally fair; northwest winds.

For Michigan—Clearing; slightly colder; west winds.

For Wisconsin—Generally fair; warmer Sunday night; winds becoming southwest.

WAR SEEMS SURE.

Hayti in a State of Great Unrest.

A Revolt to Take Place Against Hippolyte.

New York Furnished the Necessary Money,

And This Country May Get Into Trouble.

A Man-of-War Has Been Fitting Out for Months in Brooklyn and Is Now on Her Way to Capture Port Au Prince.

New York, Jan. 9.—The Herald says that United States Minister to Hayti Price has discovered a revolutionary movement in Hayti, having for its object the overthrow of President Hippolyte.

Minister Price, the Herald says, has found out that the revolutionary party has fitted out a man-of-war, equipped with all modern appliances of warfare which is intended to be used by the Haytian exiles in Jamaica to capture Port-au-Prince and establish a new government.

Minister Price has denounced the revolutionary movement to the United States government at Washington, and it is to be expected that the machinery to capture the man-of-war will be set in motion to-day by the state department. The chances, however, are that the vessel is already out to sea.

The Herald adds that it has been aware of this movement for a long time and has been in possession of facts gleaned from a correspondent who it says is a member of the revolutionists and devotes two pages to the details of the affair, the gist of which follows:

The revolutionary movement is a direct result of the passions aroused by Hippolyte's actions on the 28th of March, 1891, which led the men in exile on Jamaica to band themselves into a committee, the object of which was the punishment and overthrow of Hippolyte's government.

The leader chosen by the revolutionary committee was Gen. Francois Nanigat. This committee decided to fit out a man-of-war, in the United States, and to purchase large quantities of arms and ammunition. A trusted agent was sent to New York to confer with friends of the movement there. This agent, accompanied by a friend, arrived in New York early last summer, where they had many consultations with Gen. Nanigat's friends.

The money needed to fit out the vessel, it is said was raised in New York, among merchants who have, or wish to have, business relations with Hayti and amounted to nearly $500,000.

The steamer, an American built vessel of 2,000 tons registry and 230 feet long, was purchased in September. Her speed is said to be 14 knots an hour and she is admirably adapted to the purpose for which she was purchased.

After the vessel had been turned over to the revolutionary agents she lay in a Brooklyn dockyard. Toward the middle of December the steamer had most of her big guns in position and gunners to manage them had been engaged. These gunners were selected from retired United States navy gunners. The ship was armed with four large breech-loading rifled cannon and six rapid firing Gatling guns. Powerful search lights were also among her fittings.

The plan of the expedition was to select a point in Jamaica where sufficient arms and ammunition of the equipment of the vessel could be had, and the exiles in that country were to be taken on board and a descent made upon the capital of Hayti.

WAS TEWFIK POISONED?

Startling Story About the Khedive's Demise.

He Died From an Overdose of Morphine Given by an Unskilled Physician.

Cairo, Jan. 9.—The most startling reports are in circulation as to the real cause of the khedive's death. They obtained circulation soon after Tewfik Pasha died, and increased in strength until the authorities, British and Egyptian, could no longer ignore them. They were that the khedive's death was under suspicious circumstances, at least, and it was added that it was possible that he had been poisoned.

This report was current throughout yesterday and reached the ears of the official representatives of the powers. Sir Evelyn Baring, the British minister, was among the first to be placed in possession of the fact that this extraordinary statement was being circulated, and that it had been communicated to the different capitals of Europe. The French minister had received instructions to have the matter thoroughly investigated.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS.

More Documents Filed with the Governor.

Fish and Game Commissions and Inspector McDonald Send in Interesting Statements.

Columbus, Jan. 9.—The fish and game commission made its annual report to the governor to-day. It is only a partial one.

The commission says it is making an examination of the results of propagating and planting white fish in Lake Erie for the past five years. In the winter of 1890-91 the hatching at Sandusky was run to its full capacity.

There were hatched in March, 1891, 39,000,000 fry, which were planted about the Bass islands and in Sandusky bay. About 15,000,000 eggs of pike and perch were successfully hatched and planted—5,000,000 were in the Muskingum river, as many in Cottage Grove lake, in Summit county, and 4,000,000 in Sandusky bay.

The hatchery at Sandusky has been put in good repair. The white fish hatchery should be greatly enlarged. The run of white fish last year was unusually large. The hatching of sturgeon has been the most remarkable on record. It is proposed to increase efforts in this direction.

The planting of adult fishes has been carried on extensively with the aid of the car provided by the last legislature. Some 200,000 adult fishes of various kinds have been planted in the interior waters of the state. The game and fish laws are reported to have been well enforced. A bill will be presented to the legislature for the protection of certain of the fish in inland waters during the spawning season and to regulate the taking of the same.

William S. McDonald, chief inspector of workshops and factories, submitted a voluminous report to the governor yesterday. He inspected 1,782 factories and shops and 300 hotels and public buildings. Of these 1,087 were ordered changed. The inspector asks power to appoint eight assistants so as to enable an inspection to be made every three or four months.

He asks the enactment of more rigid laws concerning the construction and operation of elevators, so as to insure greater security to life. He also wants stationary engineers examined and licensed. He found many boys in charge of steam engines and he wants all plans for workshops, hotels, and public buildings submitted to the inspector before the buildings are erected.

He also recommends that the law relating to the employment of women be so amended as to prohibit their employment after 9 p. m. or before 6 a. m. He further recommends that no minors under 14 years of age be permitted to work in hotels, mercantile establishments or in messenger offices.

DEATH OF THE KHEDIVE.

It Will Cause Serious Complications.

All Europe Watching the Outcome of Affairs.

England's Greed to Maintain Control of Egypt May Cause a Rupture in Oriental Circles.

London, Jan. 9.—At this dangerous stage of the questions at issue between Great Britain, France and Egypt, the following letter recently written by M. Flourens, ex-minister of foreign affairs, for France, upon this matter may prove interesting, as it gives the French view of the case. M. Flourens wrote:

"The Times publishes a communication in reference to an explanatory letter addressed by me to the "Matin" on the part played by French diplomacy at the time of the negotiations by Sir Henry Drummond Wolff.

"The writer of that communication reproaches me (1) with having misunderstood the sense of article (5) in this diplomatic document, and thus mislead French readers as to its tenor; (2) with having accused English diplomacy of of stupidity

"These two points are, you will allow, too serious for me not to be anxious to clear myself of such charges before the readers of your esteemed journal, and I have therfore a certain right to appeal to your impartial hospitality in favor of my reply.

"I have always professed for British diplomacy, a sincere admiration. I render justice to the breadth of its views and the invincible perseverance with which it pursues their realization.

"I even praise it for its patriotic exclusiveness, so to speak—a thing for which many censure it. No one more than I appreciates the high qualities which distinguish the present head of your foreign office, his boldness, adroitness and resolution.

"Your correspondent cannot, therefore, seriously suppose that I accused English diplomacy of stupidity. But when a gentleman at a table d'hote empties the whole dish into his own plate, on the plea that he likes strawberries much better than any of his neighbors, it does not occur to the other guests to accuse him of stupidity.

"The reproach which they utter is of quite another sort, and their very proper anxiety is to try to prevent him from repeating the same operation several times over.

"England has laid her hand on the Nile valley because she likes Egypt as no one else likes.

"Only she promised to withdraw her troops as soon as order and prosperity are re-established. Now from all the official documents of the British government it appears that order reigns in Egypt and that never before has the prosperity of that beautiful country been so complete.

"The moment seems, therefore, to have arrived for keeping a solemn promise several times repeated."

AFTER THE HORSE THIEVES

Fulton County Farmers Form a Society.

They Will Make It Warm for the Organization Which Has Been so Successful of Late.

Wauseon, Jan. 9.—(Special)—A number of Fulton county farmers and business men met yesterday and completed an organization known as the Fulton County Horse Protective association.

This association is organized under the statute and its officers are vested with full authority to arrest.

Frank T. Blair, ex-sheriff, and who has been very successful in running down criminals, was made president, and Deputy Sheriff F. F. Williams secretary.

Deputies will be appointed for each township, who will at once report to headquarters the theft of any horse or other property of members.

From five to a dozen men will be appointed whose business it will be to immediately start in chase of any stolen property.

Several horses have been stolen from the farmers of late, which have been traced to the vicinity of or in Grand Rapids, Wood county, and several horses from Michigan have been traced to the same place during the last four months.

In each instance the officers were compelled to give up the chase baffled.

They all unite in the belief that an organized gang of thieves exists in that locality. For the purpose of allaying if possible the growing evil the association was organized, and woe be to the thief who has some half dozen sleuth hounds turned loose on him.

WHAT'S THIS?

Revenue Collector Waldorf is a sly politician, and astute enough to always tie to the winner. George has an eye for himself too, and it is given out on good authority that he will be state inspector of oil, through Sherman's request of McKinley that he make the appointment.—Lima Times.

CHARGES OF BRIBERY.

Some Indiana People Have Got Into Trouble.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—Several days ago it was openly charged that certain members of the Indiana state board of agriculture had been offered bribes to choose one of many new state fair sites under consideration.

Yesterday morning the board "investigated" the charges and adopted a "whitewash" report. R. M. Lockhart made a statement to the committee appointed to investigate the charges and the committee made a report exonerating Lockhart. Lloyd Jones made a statement to the board and was also exonerated. The investigation committee reported that R. M. Lockhart was offered $1,000, but the contract had been burned and that the persons who offered the bribe were unknown to the board. As the board has thus failed to purge itself the matter will be laid before the grand jury.

COMMISSIONER OF LABOR

Carroll D. Wright Has Made His Report to Speaker Crisp.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Carroll D. Wright's report as commissioner of labor to Speaker Crisp shows that his department was operated during the last fiscal year within the appropriation.

The amount allowed him was $153,870, and he turned back into the treasury $533.

The items of expenses were: Salaries, $84,426.20; miscellaneous expenses, $47,263.72; stationery, $668.02; library, $1,000; postage to postal union countries, $250; rent, $4,973.06; contingent expenses, $3,052.54; investigation of industrial and trade, $3,346.90; printing and binding, $3,256.08. Total, $148,236.52.

Columbus, Jan. 9.—Adjutant-General T. T. Dill, who retires from office next week, was banqueted by the officers of the Fourteenth regiment. The affair was very pleasant.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Findlay, O., Jan. 9.—The factory building erected by the American Nail Manufacturing company, in this city, was totally destroyed by fire last night. The loss amounts to about $30,000 on building and machinery, all of which is covered by insurance.

BRITISH TRADE.

London, Jan. 9.—A review of British trade for the year 1891 shows a heavy increase in the imports of food and raw material. The heaviest proportionate decrease in exports affected metals and metallic goods.

JOHN COOLS THEM DOWN

A Bucket of the Most Frigid Ice Water

Poured All Over the Foraker Hot Heads.

Senator Sherman Tells Them That to Try to Steal Senator Brice's Seat Would Bring Disgrace on the Republican Party.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Special)—The Foraker republicans have not yet given up the idea of sending their idol to the United States senate.

They tried by all manner of means, by abuse and villification, to defeat John Sherman and failed, and are now reviving the talk about stealing the seat of Senator Brice.

They have brought the war into Washington and expect John Sherman to help them fight it.

Foraker would not object to take a seat in the senate even if he had to mobilize his army and, moving on the national capital, take it by force of arms.

The committee on privileges and elections took no action on the Brice case yesterday, much to the dismay of Foraker's agents here, one of whom sought to draw Senator Sherman out on the question.

The Mansfield sage dumped a bucket of ice-cold water on their shoulders in the following interview:

"I perseume that nothing will be done by the senate looking toward the unseating of Mr. Brice unless the legislature of Ohio takes the initiative.

"That body may declare Mr. Brice to have been ineligible on the ground that he was not at the time of election an inhabitant of Ohio, and may elect another senator.

"Then that person would come before the senate as a contestant, and in that way the issue would be made. I do not know what, if anything, the Ohio legislature will do. I heard the subject discussed a good deal in Columbus and I found that several prominent republicans were opposed to taking any action, believing that the effort to unseat Mr. Brice would fail.

"I am much inclined to this opinion. Of course if it could be clearly established that Brice was an inhabitant of another state in the legal sense it would be right and proper to unseat him.

"I simply look at the facts as they are. The burden of proof would be on the contestant and I fear he would find it uphill work.

"Mr. Brice would swear that he had never surrendered his legal residence in Ohio, that he had voted there and nowhere else, and that his ballot had been received without question by republican judges of election at Lima, which he claims to be his place of residence.

"Unless the case is very clear from a legal and not a political point of view, I doubt the wisdom of making the contest.

"To attempt it and fail would only bring ridicule upon all concerned. From what I heard at Columbus I have an impression that the matter will not be pushed."

MAJOR OVERMAN'S DEFENSE.

The friends of Major Overman have been venturing a great many guesses about the defense which the accused will make at the court martial to be held January 19. An official of the government, who ought to have the inside facts, stated that the major had prepared answers to two of the specific charges. One of these was that he had bought $20 worth of household articles which appeared under a government voucher as spikes. To this he will answer that it was a mistake of his clerk and that the goods should have been charged up to his personal account. Another charge made against him was that he took the money received as fines from contractors, when work was not done in specified time, and never accounted to the government for it. To this, it is said, he will answer that money so received was not turned in to the United States treasury, but was expended in making improvements where harbor appropriations were not sufficient for the purpose. If he did this, of course, it was without authority, but the government and the public would look upon it as a vastly different thing from appropriating it to his own use.—Cleveland Press.

WILL COOK PARDONED.

The Governor Ordered the Release This Morning.

Will Return to Toledo This Evening—The Pardon is Unconditional.

Will Cook is pardoned. The news will surprise Toledoans, but the feeling is general that the young man has been sufficiently punished, and that it will be well to give him an opportunity to again make a man of himself in the community where he disgraced himself and humiliated his friends. He will return to Toledo to-night. Though he committed a crime and deserved punishment, he comes back a free man, and in the interest of humanity and for the sake of his good family the Bee hopes the right hand of fellowship will be extended to him, and that he may be assisted in becoming a man among men. If he succeeds he must leave off his old habits, but in the light of disastrous consequences that should not be a difficult thing for him to do.

PENNED IN BY SNOW.

Trains Blockaded and Business Stopped.

Is Great Britain's Climate Growing Colder?

People Are Beginning to Believe That it is and a Flood of Emigration is Liable to Occur in the Spring.

London, Jan. 9.—The snow storm continues in Scotland and in the north of Ireland and traffic may be said to have completely stopped.

In spite of the severity of the storms which have prevailed in Great Britain and Ireland during the past 12 months the present visitation is said to be the most severe which has swept these shores in ten years.

Far from a station in Caithness, the most northerly county in Scotland, a train is fast imbedded in the snow, and in spite of the efforts of rescue parties, up to the present it has been found impossible to succor the passengers and railroad crew on board the cars.

The mails as a rule are five hours late, causing much inconvenience and loss to the business community.

On some lines traffic has been so entirely stopped that the officials have deferred any further efforts to break the blockade until the weather moderates.

Vegetables and fruits, to say nothing of meat and milk, are at a premium at snow-bound towns and bread has also risen in price owing to the difficulty which the bakers have or claim to have in obtaining their supplies of flour.

Should the storm continue for a few days longer such articles of food will have been run up to famine prices.

The sufferers most to be pitied, are the outdoor laborers; the weather bids fair to deprive them of at least a week's work at this hard period of the year.

As for the farmers, they are nearly heartbroken. For twelve long months storm seems to have followed storm over these islands, until they are reduced to a really pitiable condition.

During last winter they suffered from three terrible snow storms and blizzards, which destroyed their grain seeds, and froze their cattle and flocks to death.

Then at periods during the rest of the year there were three more terrific gales, wind and rain adding to the damage already done by the snow storms.

Whole districts were flooded, miles upon miles of country was under water for weeks, the crops everywhere were much damaged and in many places they were entirely destroyed.

The general complaint seems to be that the climate of England has undergone a great change and that if the present winter is as bad as the last one the tide of emigration from Great Britain will increase considerably next spring and summer.

One thing is particularly noticed by Americans in connection with the recent snow storms in England, and that is that the English people, those snowed up in many sections, have not yet commenced placing sleighs upon the roads.

A few enterprising owners of sleighs could make small fortunes in these emergencies by acting as means of communication between isolated spots and carrying mails, provisions, eager travelers, etc., from spot to spot.

But they have not yet learned the benefit of the vehicle on runners.

THE BLAINIACS IN LINE.

More Oath-Bound Political Organizations.

Knights of Reciprocity and the Continental League.

An Organization About Seventy Five Thousand Strong for the Purpose of Backing the Sick Man From the Pine Tree State.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The News this morning says: "A new political organization has been formed.

Reciprocity is its platform and Blaine is its chief.

It is a combination of laboring men in the protected trades, farmer who are not in or are weary of alliance, and republicans who generally believe in Blaine and a protective tariff.

Last night a committee of the Chicago organizers met at 163 Washington street. The organization is secret and oath-bound. Each member must subscribe to a ritual that fixes his opinions on certain questions in black and white. It claims 5,000 members in Chicago.

In the whole country it is claimed there are no less than 75,000 members and the organization is growing rapidly. The new organization is said to be a union of the "knights of reciprocity" and the Continental league. The latter was organized in New York toward the end of last year under the leadership of Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World, of New York. Reciprocity and opposition to the theories of the "deputies" are the most prominent features of the new platform.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

London, Jan. 9.—G. W. Hastings, M. P., who was arrested for embezzling the trust funds, was again arraigned in court to-day and after further examination was again remanded.

THE C., J. & M. SALE.

Wheeling & Lake Erie Prospectus for 1892.

The Freight Men to Meet—Various Matters of Local Interest to Railroaders.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon United States Marshal Wade read the special master's notice of sale of the northern division of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw road, on execution of a mortgage by the Central Trust company, of New York. There were no bidders present, and the sale was adjourned until 4 o'clock.

At this hour Marshal Wade again called for bids. In the meantime Col. Robert G. Ingersoll had arrived. As representative of the reorganization committee he submitted a bid of $2,250,000, which was accepted, being the only offer made.

Before the sale will be confirmed, Hon. James L. Prince, of Lima, attorney representing F. M. Shaffer, will be heard in regard to a judgment, obtained in favor of his client against the C., J. & M. for $7,000. The point to be contested is, whether the mortgage or judgment has precedence.

The W. & L. E. for 1892.

The Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad officials have issued the following regarding the prospects of the road for the present year:

There is every indication that the company will make large gains in net earnings in 1892. The company was delayed last year in the completion of the Steubenville branch on account of freshets in the Ohio river, and this caused the loss of the business of carrying ore from the lakes in 1891. The extension to Wheeling, while completed on time, did not result in any business from that quarter because of the dispute with the Wheeling Bridge and Terminal company, as to the charges for transfer of cars over their bridge. This dispute continued until the latter part of the year, when a settlement was reached and an arrangement is now being perfected for the exchange of business between the Baltimore & Ohio and Wheeling & Lake Erie roads at Wheeling. The railway company, during 1891, had the interest to pay on both of these extensions without deriving revenue therefrom for the reasons already given. The revenue from both of these extensions in the current year will therefore be for the benefit of the stockholders.

Among the investments of the company is the Wheeling, Lake Erie & Pittsburg Coal company, of which the railroad company holds two-thirds of the stock. The company has developed recently from a business which merely paid fixed charges to a business which is averaging at the rate of $75,000 per annum surplus. This is done with a force of 1,000 men. It is intended to increase this force to 1,500 when the result in surplus earnings will be correspondingly increased. The income from these sources will not show in the weekly reports of earnings, but will appear in the annual report. The Belt line at Toledo, which is owned entirely by the Wheeling & Lake Erie company, was double-tracked in August, and since that time has been showing an increase in business which, it is estimated, will be in 1892 at least $40,000 in excess of the business of 1891. Taking two-thirds of the surplus earnings of the coal company, the increase of the net earnings of the Belt line, and the new business which come from the Steubenville & Wheeling extensions, the outlook is for a heavy increase in net earnings during the year 1892. The net earnings of the Wheeling & Lake Erie company this year will show fully 6 per cent. on the preferred stock, and a satisfactory surplus for the common.

Meeting of Freight Men.

Chairman Blanchard to-day issued his call for the next regular freight meeting of the Central Traffic association, to be held next Tuesday. Among the important matters to be considered are through rates on lumber from Pacific coast points, request of Grand Rapids board of trade for equalization of rates from Grand Rapids to Missouri river points, and the practice of stopping grain in transit.

Freight Rates Reduced.

Nearly a year ago the Chicago & Alton road gave notice that it would accept proportionate rates on import freight, arriving at Baltimore and Newport News, from East St. Louis to Kansas City, the object being to meet competition by way of New Orleans. The notice was not put into effect at that time as there was a prospect of satisfactory adjustment of the matter. Several conferences were held to that end, but the eastern roads decided that they could not make different rates on imported and domestic articles. The Alton has now notified Chairman Midgeley of the Western Freight association, that it will immediately put into effect the proportionate rates. The reductions will apply only on import freight in carload shipments.

W. & L. E. and the Wheeling Bridge.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 9.—It is announced here to-day that negotiations are in progress between the B. & O road and the Wheeling & Lake Erie to secure control of the line of the Wheeling Bridge & Terminal company in this city. The price to be paid for the line is in the neighborhood of $3,000,000. If the deal is completed the B. & O. and Wheeling & Lake Erie will be brought into direct connection, and a new east and west through line will be established. The announcement has caused a sensation in railroad circles.

O. C. Earnings.

The following statement shows the earnings of the O. C. lines for the first week of the new year:

T. & O. C.
1892	$24,160
1891	23,492
Increase	$668
T. C. & C.
1891	$5,302 52
1892	4,892 00
Decrease	$410 52

Cinders from Many Engines.

General Manager D. Carter, of the Detroit and Cleveland Steam Navigation company, announces the promotion of Augustus A. Schantz, assistant general passenger agent, to the position of general passenger and ticket agent, taking effect January 4. Mr. Schantz is quite well-known in Cleveland, and is a very popular passenger man.

THE CASE CLOSED.

The Oliver street damage suit, which has been on hearing in probate court, has been concluded. It was an action to change the grade of Oliver street. The damages claimed amounted to $12,844, and the jury fixed the same at $3,239.91.

All back—every cent you've paid for it, if it doesn't benefit or cure you. A medicine that promises this is one that promises to help you.

But there's only one medicine of its kind that can and does promise it. It's Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the guaranteed remedy for all Blood, Skin and Scalp Diseases, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst scrofula. It cleanses, purifies, and enriches the blood, invigorates the system, and cures Saltrheum, Tetter, Eczoma, Erysipelas and all manner of blood-taints from whatever cause. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence.

It's the best blood-purifier, and it's the cheapest, no matter how many doses are offerd for a dollar—for you pay only for the good you get.

Can anything else, at any price, be really as cheap?

Nothing else is "just as good" as the "Discovery." It may be better—for the dealer. But he wants money and you want help.

HOME FROM COLUMBUS.

The Toledo Delegates to the Ohio Trades and Labor Assembly.

The delegates from Toledo to the Ohio Trades and Labor assembly are home again, well pleased with the work of the session. One of the delegates said to a Bee that it was the finest labor convention he had ever attended, the best conducted, and made up of the best material. Carpenters, plumbers and Knights of Labor were in the majority.

The bills presented by the Toledo delegation were all favorably acted upon, except the resolution relative to governmental interference with the ownership of newspapers, which no one expected would be adopted. The Toledo delegates are well pleased with the adoption of their resolutions demanding the appointment of local inspectors of plumbing in cities of 60,000 or more inhabitants, and the indorsement of their bill to go before the legislature asking that employers of painters be required to use guard rails, anchors, life lines, or other safety appliances for swinging scaffolds.

The carpenter delegates to the convention will go home and agitate the formation of a state association. There are such great numbers in the Brotherhood of Carpenters now that it would seem well to subdivide the work.

CIRCUIT COURT DECISIONS.

The circuit court handed down decisions this morning as follows:

Lake Shore Railway company against Gilday; action for damages; verdict of $1,000 sustained.

Nellis v. Toledo Commercial; action on advertising contract; verdict in favor of plaintiff below sustained.

Page v. Cherry; action involving title to canal lands; decision of the lower court sustained; plaintiff entitled to canals lands purchased from the city.

Toledo v. Klopek; verdict of $2,000 affirmed.

Sheon v. Van Fleet; lower court sustained.

$15 Suit for $10 at Mockett's.

MUST COMPLAIN IN WRITING.

At the request of County Auditor Jones the decennial board of equalization met at the court house this morning to hear and consider any complaint as to the valuation and tax assessments. The lower hall was crowded with complainants long before the board convened. After sizing up the situation, the board concluded to adjourn until next Saturday, when all complaints submitted in writing will be considered.

FARMERS IN SESSION.

State Presidents Are Meeting in Washington.

The Condition of the Tiller of the Soil is Becoming Worse Each Year and They Demand Some Relief.

Washington, Jan. 9.—State presidents of the Farmers' alliance, in session here, are discussing the welfare of the organization and comparing notes on its progress.

The officers attending the meeting have prepared a memorial calling attention to the universal depression in all departments of agriculture in the country that have impressed the farmers of the United States with the gravest concern and alarm.

Despite the fruitfulness of the soil, favorable climate, faithful application, and industry, irrespective of seasons and harvests, the prices of farms and farm products are constantly depreciating in value.

The memorial continues that patient and earnest investigation of this anomalous condition of affairs has impressed the farmers of the country that the evils thus clogging and paralyzing their energies are largely due to the discriminating inequalities in the governmental policy which is the legitimate outgrowth of partial and unfriendly legislation.

In their organized capacity, comprising 38 states and territories, the Alliance has adopted a declaration of its principals, a copy which is submitted, and which, they believe, if enacted into laws, will restore the agricultural industry to its true and just position among the great industries of the country and conserve to the best interests of the public good.

They call attention to the necessity of immediate legislative action for the financial relief of business interests of the country. They assert that the present financial system is inherently defective and incompatible with the genius and spirit of American institutions, and in conflict with the fundamental principles of government.

It was born of the exigencies of a mighty civil war and is purely a military expedient, which, while it saved the life of the nation in war, has demonstrated that it is not the system for the preservation and perfection of national life in peace.

They assert that the steadfast observance and maintainance of the powers and functions conferred upon the government for making, issuing and controlling money is absolutely necessary to helpful and symmetrical development in national progress.

They believe the exclusive right given by the constitution to the government to money carries with it the obligation to supply it in such manner and amount as to meet at all times the requirements of the legitimate good of the country and our growing population and the trade.

All money should be issued directly by the government to the people at a low rate of interest and in sufficient volume to meet the legitimate demands of legitimate or safe and solid securities, and should be legal tender for all debt. Silver should have all the rights in coinage and the qualities of legal tender that gold possesses.

In conclusion the memorial says that they do not ask congress to veture on doubtful experiments, but they present the deplorable condition of the agricultural interests with the hope that a remedy may be found to relieve them from impending bankruptcy and ruin, and secure to the people and posterity the blessings of a just and equitable adjustment.

Mockett's 1-3 off sale is absolute.

THE CONSOLIDATED SUED.

In common pleas court to-day George Watterson brought action against the Toledo Consolidated Street Railway company to recover $2,000 for injuries sustained on St. Clair street November 10, 1891.

THE GHOST DANCE IS ON.

A Thousand Shouting Indians on the Strip.

Pawnees, Kiowas, Osages and Others Are on the Ground Waiting for the Coming of the Messiah.

Guthrie, O. T., Jan. 9.—On a large level mound on the Arkansas river in the Cherokee strip, nearly 1,000 Indians are holding a religious dance day and night and awaiting the coming of the Messiah.

All of the Pawnees are there and many Kiowas, Ottos, Osages and Comas.

Some have come several hundred miles, bringing ponies and cattle to sacrifice, and others have spent all their money for presents to give their savior.

One trader has sold nearly a thousand dollars worth of presents to them. They are not hostile to the whites, but say that they will not stop the ceremonies until the savior appears.

During the last few days five or six of the dancers have died from over-exertion and exposure.

Judge Sala Claims to Rule All Police,

And Issues Some Queer Orders From the Bench Which Will Bring a Conflict of Authority.

Judge Sala was defeated before the police board last night, but now he makes effort to get petty revenge. In court this afternoon he issued orders that hereaftr whn prisoners are brought in, papers shall be made out, and the man taken into court and no settlements are to be made in the clerk's office; he also ordered that all affidavits shall be made out by the prosecutor and never by the clerk, and under sections 500 and 503 he ordered that the captain of police or his lieutenant shall attend all meetings of the police court and all persons arrested shall be taken before the court at the next session and some charge put against them.

Prosecutor Wheeler told the judge that the court had no authority o make such orders, and in subsance that these matters were none of his business, but the little judge on his high stool swelled himself and declared that the orders must stand. These orders if carried out will seriously cripple the work of the department and a conflict of authority is likely to occure.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat market quiet and steady at a decline of 9 pence on California; corn firmer. Liverpool wheat and corn firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 436,635 bu, compared with 215,874 bu on the same day last year.

The receipts of wheat to-day at five western points are but 242,000 bu., and at Minneapolis and Duluth 256,968 bp.

The receipts of grain this week at eight principal western points (see table herein) are: Wheat, 3,396,000 bu.; corn, 3,321,000 bu.; oats, 1,497,000 bu. Previous week of five days: Wheat, 4,063,000 bu.; corn, 4,162,000 bu.; oats, 1,786,000 bu. Corresponding week in 1891: Wheat, 1,586,000 bu.; corn, 1,057,000 bu.; oats, 966,000 bu., showing an increase this week over 1891 of: Wheat, 1,720,000 bu.; corn, 2,264,000 bu.; oats, 431,000 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 288,708 bu. and flour to an aggregate of 370,000 bu. The exports of corn were 54,792 bu., and of oats, 25,750 bu.

The exports from the same ports this week were wheat 1,687,000 bu. Corn 2,019,000 bu. Oats, 565,000.

Bradstreets reports the exports for a week from both coasts at 5,321,000 bu. Previous week, 3,107,000 bu. Bradstreets also reports the available stocks on both coasts at 78,056,000 bu., which is 18,000,000 bu. more than last year, and 16,- more than in 1890.

The grain markets in this country continue weak, and while there has been no decline in prices of consequence, the wheat markets have been in buyers' favor from 1-8 to 1-4, and that about measures the fluctuations. We hear of nothing to affect values either way. English markets are steady at the decline. This decline in English markets has been very important. Since November 24 it has been equal to 9c bu, and Toledo has nearly kept pace with it. We have done what we could to prevent this decline, but it seems to but little purpose.

It is a stiff-necked and rebellious generation—a generation of short sellers, who do not believe in the gospel—glad tidings—of higher prices. They are joined to their idols.

Liverpool closed unchanged in price, but quiet and dull.

Paris is quoted lower.

New York closed at 12 o'clock, as usual on Saturday. January wheat was 1-8c and May 1-4c lower. January corn unchanged; May, 1-8c lower. Oats steady.

In Chicago May wheat closed at 93, a loss of 1-4. January corn 3-8 and May 1-8 lower. January oats 1-8 lower.

In Toledo business has been much more limited than yesterday. In wheat futures the trading was only moderate, and prices were about steady with yesterday's closing. There was no feature of interest in the deal and the market closed just where it did yesterday. On the call May wheat sold at 98 1-4. After the call at 98 1-4 to 87 7-8 and closed at 98 bid.

Cash wheat was in very moderate request. No. 2 soft sold at 93c and closed at that, steady: No. 3 soft at 90 to 90 1-4; No other grades dealt in.

Corn—No. 2 at 42 1-4c; No. 3 at 40c; No. 4 at 38 1-2c. Nothing done in oats. Rye—No. 2, 88c bid. Dressed hogs, $4 90 to $5 00.

Clover seed was dull and unchanged on the call. February sold at $5 45 and March at $5 50. After the call there was quite a spirited market and a sharp advance. January sold at $5 50 to $5 55; February at $5 55 to 5 60; March at $5 67 1-2 to $5 65; prime for cash, at $5 55; No. 2 at $5 00 to $5 40.

Chief O'Dwyer Exonerated From the Charges

Which Have Been Hawked About for Weeks.

The Testimony Taken at Last Night's Police Board Meeting — Vote Was Unanimous in the Chief's Favor.

The malicious and ridiculous charges against Chief of Police O'Dwyer have been proven to be unfounded, except on malice and spite.

At the meeting of the police board last night a long session was held and a great amount of testimony was produced on the side of the prosecution, which was conducted by Attorney J. H. Southard, but little of it had any connection with the charges of contempt of court and exceeding his authority. In fact, a large part of the evidence produced by the prosecution was of such a character as to vindicate the chief.

Attorney L. G. Richardson conducted the defense in a masterly manner, and when the testimony was all in the board unanimously voted to dismiss the charges without any discussion.

In this connection it may be stated the hearing last night proved that the course taken by the Bee in this matter was the right one, and every statement made in this paper regarding this conspiracy against the chief was borne out by the sworn testimony before the board. Not a single statement was shown to be wrong and the end was as predicted, an utter discomfiture for those who brought the charges.

Mayor Emmick also placed himself on the right side of this matter last night, and left the little judge out in the cold. Before the meeting he stated to a Bee that he was not interested in the prosecution of the chief, other than having transmitted Judge Sala's charges to the board. In the meeting he gave the judge but little support and voted with the rest to dismiss the charges.

The large amount of testimony amounts to little, but it is of interest as showing upon what small grounds the charges against the chief were based.

Mr. Kruse was not present at the meeting, but nothing more was said about postponing the case on this account. A large number of witnesses had been subpoenaed and were on hand and the little board room was crowded almost to suffocation.

The chief pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Mr. Southard stated that he was present to assist in presenting the charges, and when he asked to see the papers Mayor Emmick handed them to him with this significant remark: "The charges are formulated in the statement of Judge Sala."

Turnkey Souder was the first witness called for the prosecution. He remembered the arrest of Ed Streicher, on the 29th of November. He was not on duty at the time, but saw Streicher the next morning: "He was sent into court," said Mr. Souder, "was afterwards returned to me and I locked him up. He remained there until about 1 o'clock Saturday. I did not know of any order of the court in the case. On Saturday I released him on order of the chief. When the chief came down stairs he asked me 'how is he to-day?' and I answered that I thought he was all right. I had no conversation whatever with the chief regarding any order of the court on this man."

Mr. Southard—"Did you ever state to any one that you understood there was an order?"

"I did not."

"The chief had a conversation with the man," continued Mr. Souder, "and asked him where he came from. He said that he came from somewhere in Michigan and wanted to go to Steubenville. Officer Ashby was there to take the man, and the chief told him to take the man over the river and put him on the nearest route to Steubenville. Ashby asked if he could take him to Ironville, which was his beat, and put him on the Wheeling tracks, and the chief said he could. I had no knowledge of anything being said about an order of the court. The entry on the blotter against the man was 'suspicion' and is there yet.'

At this point the blotter was produced, and the entry was as Mr. Souder had stated.

Judge Sala's Testimony.

Judge Sala was the next witness and, after stating that he was judge of the police court on the morning of November 27, he told of the trial of Ed. Streicher.

"The case on the court docket is numbered 36387, charge of petit larceny. He plead not guilty. Evidence was introduced and when the testimony was all in I was convinced that the man's mind was not right. I said the rings should be returned to Mr. Gitsky and the money to be returned to the defendant. And I made this order then and there upon this docket: 'Defendant bound over to probate court to inquire into his lunacy.'

"After that entry was made he was taken down stairs and I do not know what was done with him until he appeared in court again.

"I find his name again on the docket Wednesday, December 2, with charges of drunk and resisting officer.

"I had no conversation with Chief O'Dwyer, I think, about this man, until after the case was finally disposed of. I went into the office and the chief stepped up and said something about this case but I can't distinctly remember what the conversation was.

"I want to say further that this entry was made on docket and placed on the journal and read in open court on the next morning, the 28th, and the journal was signed by me in open court."

Mr. Richardson then cross-examined the judge.

He asked regarding the conversation the judge had with the chief about this case, but Sala could not recollect the full conversation. It was a day or so after the last case was disposed of, he said.

"You wrote charges against the chief after this case?, did you not?" asked Mr. Richardson.

"Yes."

"You were somewhat exercised reagrding the matter, were you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Under those circumstances, can't you remember something regarding your conversation with the chief?"

Mr. Richardson questioned him more closely regarding this conversation, but the judge evaded all the questions and would only answer that he could not remember any of the conversation.

Mr. Richardson—"You found no fault with the chief, did you?"

Judge Sala—"No, sir. I had good reason though, simply because I felt very much exercised over the matter, seeing that man in court with his head all beat up, after I had ordered him sent to the probate court and as I did not want to enter into any controversy with the chief."

Mr. Richardson: "Is it not true that in your communication with the chief, you expressed regret, but said that you knew it was no fault of any officer of court?"

Judge Sala. "I don't think I did."

Mr. Richardson: "When you had this conversation with the chief, did you say anything to him about the order on your docket?"

"No, sir."

When questioned he said: "Several days after I talked with Judge Millard on the matter. That was previous to my own communication, but not previous to the note I wrote on the back of the copy of the journal entry. I furnished that entry because the mayor asked me to."

"Where was your communication written?"

"The mayor at his office asked me to put those charges in writing, and I hurriedly wrote them out with a lead pencil and they were written out by the mayor's type writer."

"What would you usually do in a case of contempt of court, Judge?"

Southard objected somewhat to this, and the judge seemed anxious to tell but did not.

Mr. Richardson—"Why did you wait so long after this before you did anything in the matter?"

Judge Sala—"Because I had a conversation with Millard, and we both thought the matter should be investigated."

"Did Judge Millard say anything about the chief?"

"He said the whole matter should be investigated."

"Did he say anything about investigating the chief?"

"I am not going to tell our private conversation; Judge Millard is here and can tell if he wants to."

During part of the cross-examination the judge became considerably excited, but managed to keep his seat.

Streicher's Arrest.

Officer Charles Buchele related the circumstances of Ed Streicher's arrest for stealing some rings from Gitsky. He arrested Streicher, saw him tried, but did not know what was afterwards done with the man. He returned the rings to Mr. Gitsky and collected from him $1.15 that belonged to Streicher. He never had any conversation with the chief regarding this man.

The Newspapers.

Joseph R. W. Cooper, reporter on the Blade, was the next witness. He told of having a conversation with Chief O'Dwyer on the day after the charges had been preferred by the board, and read the interview which was printed in the Blade, in which the chief denied having intended any contempt of court.

Mr. Richardson cross-examined the witness and asked if he had interviewed Judge Sala in the matter.

Mr. Cooper said that he had and read that interview in which Sala had stated that he was not obliged to notify the chief of orders made in the court.

"Did you ever talk with the mayor regarding this case?"

"Yes, often."

"Have you had any conversation with the mayor during the past few days?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Southard made some objection as he didn't think it would throw any light on the case and take up time, and finally the question was dropped.

Cooper—"I had more conversation with the chief on this matter besides what I printed. The chief said that in his conversation with Judge Sala the judge did not seem much dissatisfied."

Streicher's Release.

Officer Ed Ashby stated that he knew Streicher had been brought in under arrest and the first time he saw him was when he had gone down to the turnkey's room to take him away. He heard nothing said about an order of the court, between any parties in the room.

"Have you made any statements to Judge Sala or Mayor Emmick regarding this?"

"Judge Sala called at my house and I told him the same as I have told you. I was also down to the mayor's office and they asked me regarding the conversation between the chief and Turnkey Souder about an order of the court, and I told them there had been some conversation between them, but I did not know what that was."

Mr. Southard asked him if he had not stated to Judge Sala and Mayor Emmick that he had reminded the chief that the judge had ordered the man taken to the probate court, but the officer denied having made any such statement. He then told that he had taken the man down to Ironville and started him down the railroad track.

Waring—"Why did you go to the mayor's office?"

"I was called there, but I forget who asked me to go there."

Mayor Emmick then said that statements had been made as to what Ashby knew of this matter and he had sent for him to find out.

Dr. Kitchen.

Dr. F. A. Kitchen stated that some time early in December his attention was called to Ed Streicher, then confined in the jail. He examined the man for insanity and made out papers of insanity which he filed with the police court. He found the man in a semi-comatose condition, his mind entirely gone at times; there was a cut on the head, on his ears and there were marks on the chest, abdomen and limbs. He was in a very bad condition and the doctor called the judge's attention to the case.

On cross-examination he stated that the wound on the head was an old wound while the others appeared more recent.

The Dockets.

Mr. S. F. Tanner, deputy police clerk, told of Streicher having been tried in court on a charge of petit larceny and an entry having then and there been made on the docket, ordering the man sent to the probate court to inquire into his lunacy. Then on Monday the same man was brought in again to be tried on charges of drunkenness.

"On the morning of the second I went over to the office of Chief O'Dwyer and told him that the man was to go to the probate court."

Mr. Richardson, on cross-examination, called Mr. Tanner's attention to the docket of December 2.

Mr. Tanner said that the first part of this entry: "Case marked off docket on motion of city," was made by the judge in court, but the words "Ordered to be taken to the probate court to inquire into his lunacy," were placed there afterwards, whether three hours or three days he could not tell.

Mr. Potter: "Had you been in the habit of informing the chief when cases have been disposed of in this way?"

"I have on several occasions."

Judge Millard told of Ed Streicher having been brought into the probate court and acting very queerly. After that he had Dr. Kitchen examine the man and the doctor had found him insane. "The doctor said to me that the man had been much abused and was much worked up over the matter, and wanted the matter brought before the police board. Finally I told him if he would put the charges in writing I would place them before the mayor."

The judge also told how Streicher had been held for a week in jail and was afterwards sent to the infirmary, from which place he soon escaped.

Mr. Richardson: "At any time have you written a letter charging Chief O'Dwyer with disobeying the orders of the police court or the laws of the state of Ohio?"

"The only communication I have made to anybody on this matter is the letter before the board."

Mr. Richardson: "In saying that this matter should be investigated, did you have Chief O'Dwyer in your mind?"

"My letter don't say anything about the chief, and it tells what I have to do with the case."

M. C. Fogarty, clerk of the police court, displayed the court journal and read the entries in the three Streicher cases. He confirmed Mr. Tanner's statement that part of the entry of December 2 was placed on the docket after that day and said that this was done Monday morning, December 7.

Mr. Southard had an affidavit regarding the alleged brutal treatment of Streicher when he was arrested the second time, but as it had nothing to do with the chief he was not allowed to introduce it.

Impeaching Their Own Witnesses.

Mr. Southard then called upon Mayor Emmick to testify, at the same time frankly admitting that it was out of the regular line and looked like contradicting their own witnesses.

The mayor stated that a few days before the last board meeting Judge Sala had told him he had had a conversation with Officer Ashby and the judge said that the officer had told him there had been some remarks between the chief and Turnkey Souder regarding an order to take the man to the probate court. He then had sent for Ashby and that officer had told him that when he was in the turnkey's room to get Streicher. Turnkey Souder had said something about an order to send the man to the probate court.

"I also want to make a statement," said the mayor, "regarding Mr. Cooper's interview with me. He had asked me if there was any religion brought in the case and I told him no, not under any circumstances did religion have anything to do with it."

"When Judge Sala brought to me the the letters from Judge Millard and Dr. Kitchen I told him to make his charges in writing. I then went out of my office and when I returned Judge Sala's communication was handed to me."

Mr. Richardson—"Are you willing to say that Officer Ashby has perjured himself?"

"If he has not, he was mistaken in his statement to me."

Judge Sala was again called upon and said that Ashby had made statements to him just as the mayor had said.

Here the prosecution rested its case, and Mr. Richardson at once asked the board to dismiss the charges without hearing the defense, as the prosecution had not made out a case. Chief O'Dwyer, however, wanted to put in his defense, and so Mr. Richardson withdrew his motion.

Chief O'Dwyer's Statement.

The chief then made his statement as follows: "On November 27 I was in the turnkey's room and in a hurry. The turnkey said something about a man that was locked up on suspicion. I was busy, and said I would see about it again. I was down again and looked on the blotter to see who was in on suspicion. He again called my attention to this man, and said that he was in there and the other prisoners had been guying him. Now the others had been taken out and the man was getting lonesome. There was something said about the man being insane, but I never knew that this man had been before the court at all, and had no notice of it from anybody, nor had I any information that Judge Sala had ordered the man to the probate court.

"Many men are arrested on suspicion, and Judge Sala has nothing to do with them, as they are not taken into court. It was neglect on the part of the arresting officer that this charge of suspicion on the blotter was not changed.

"I told Souder to let this man out and I talked with him. He seemed to be a sort of a fool. I could not get much satisfaction out of him. I told Ashby to take him over the river and put him on his way to Steubenville. Not a word was said by Mr. Souder about an order of the court.

"The next I heard of this man was on Monday morning. It appears that he was brought in the night before on a charge of drunk and resisting an officer.

"Judge Sala says that when he came into my office that there were others there. I swear positively that there was no one else in my office but Judge Sala and myself. I explained to him how I had come to send the man out, and he went away apparently satisfied. "I had no intention of showing any disrespect to Judge Sala, as I had no knowledge of his trial."

"I first heard of the charge of petit larceny against the man when Judge Sala came over to my office to talk about the case.

"When this man was brought back the second time somebody told me that the man had been struck by a club while resisting the officer and I told Turnkey Nohl to have Dr. Fisher examine the man and Dr. Fisher did so."

Mr. Southard cross-examined the chief and wanted to know if the blotter had ever been changed from suspicion to another charge in any other case.

"Yes," answered the chief, "when a man is brought in charged with suspicion and an affidavit is made out against him the charge on the blotter is changed."

Mr. Southard—"Do you ever examine the dockets and journals?"

"Very seldom."

"You frequently inquire of officers as to the disposition of cases?"

"Not often."

"You recognize that you must take before the court all persons you have in your custody?"

"No, sir."

"Are you in the habit of releasing men who have been arrested, without taking them before the court?"

"Yes, sir, when they are brought in only on suspicion and no other charge is placed against them."

Mr. Southard continued questioning in this line, to make the point that the chief should send into court every person arrested without exception, when the chief, Yankee like, went at him with another question as follow:

"Mr. Southard, if you were chief and a man was brought in only on suspicion and no other charge was placed against him, what would you do?"

"Well," said Mr. Southard, "if I answer that question I must say that I would release the man," and a shout of laughter went up from the room at Mr. Southard's admission against his point.

Mr. Southard—"Did you inquire of anybody as to whether this man had been before the court.

"No, sir."

"Did you know that the order of the court was published in the newspapers that day."

"No, sir."

"Was anything said about the rings the man had?"

"No, sir."

Dr. Fisher, son of the health officer, testified that he had examined Streicher in the police station but the only wound the man complained of was the one on the top of the head.

Turnkey Nohl also stated that this wound on the head was the only one the man complained of.

Patrolman Flanagan testified that he arrested Streicher early Sunday morning. He struck him on the back of the head with the club after he had chewed at the officer's finger. He denied that he struck him anywhere else, but said that the man had made it very lively for him.

Mr. Southard read an affidavit from one Julia Flynn, who said that she saw Flanagan choking the man on the ground and when he got up the officer deliberately struck him on the head with his club, and without any provocation, and treated him in a very brutal manner.

Mr. Flanagan denied the allegations in the affidavit.

Mr. Stager objected to this as taking up too much time and not being relevant to the case, as Flanagan was not being tried.

Good Character.

Ex-Police Judge Henry L. Lorenz testified to the good character of Edward O'Dwyer while he was on the bench.

Richardson: "In case of contempt of your court by an officer, what would you do?"

"I would call him before me and fine him and probably imprison him."

Judge MacGahan, also ex-police judge, was asked the same questions and made the same answers.

Richardson: "In a case like this, where a man was insane, what would you do?"

"In such cases I always notified the chief."

A letter was also produced from Judge Humphrey, who was too sick to attend. In this letter the judge gave the chief a most excellent character while he was connected with the police court for six years as prosecutor and judge.

The Arguments.

This closed the testimony and Mr. Southard made a brief argument quoting some old ordinances of the city that said the chief should attend all the sittings of the police court. He had not much to say in the way of reviewing the evidence, but stated that he considered the case one, if not of willful neglect of the order of the court, at least one of gross carelessness.

Mr. Richardson, in presenting his side of the case, showed how little the evidence produced had to do with the charges and severely scored Judge Sala for the manner in which this prosecution had been conducted.

"I don't believe that the present judge of the police court," said he, "ever expected the chief to go and look over his docket for special orders. I don't believe the judge ever expected the chief to do this in this case. I also believe that when Judge Sala talked with the chief he was satisfied and this matter came up later.

"It would be impossible for the chief to follow up every arrest made and look over the records in each case.

"I say to you there is something more than what the evidence shows what these charges are. I don't know what it is nor don't care. I don't believe this board is going to resolve itself into an inquisition on any such evidence as has been produced here to-night."

Mr. Southard made a brief answer repeating what he had said before and he had hardly resumed his seat when Mr. Stager made a motion that it was the sense of the board that the charges were not sustained.

This motion was seconded by Mr. Potter and without a word of comment the motion was passed unanimously and the chief was vindicated.

SAFEGUARDS NEEDED.

The frequency of paragraphs mentioning the failure of life insurance associations operated on the assessment plan cannot have escaped the notice of observing newspaper readers. The seriousness of the fact suggests the need of more exacting legislation whereby such occurrences would be difficult to occur, if not made impossible. For the most part the injury done by these organizations falls upon a class of citizens who are least able to stand it—the laboring and small wage earners. With an almost hand-to-mouth income, realizing the need of some monetary provision for their families in case of death, and only intelligent enough on the subject of life insurance to know it was originally devised for just such contingencies, they become easy converts to the sophistry of the "easy payment" theorists, which is apparently in such harmony with their pecuniary ability. When, to these deluded ones the inevitable comes, and with it the realization that the only thing their self-denial has bought them is that saddest of human experiences, the extinction of a cherished hope, the enormity of the wrong is so apparent that none can hesitate to believe something more needs to be done to throw safeguards about this class of credulous and confiding citizens.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

The King's Daughters—The Ys' Meeting —The Colloquial Club—Notes.

The Law kindergarten room was filled yesterday afternoon, to listen to Mrs. S. J. Foley's paper on "Heroism in Woman." The essay was very interesting and instructive, and the animated debate it called out was participated in by a number of ladies. Mrs. A. E. Lang presided. In order to get around to the regular afternoon for these meetings, with which the holidays interfered, the next meeting will be held on Friday afternoon next in the same place. Mrs. Rachel Godfrey gives the paper, subject: "The American Mother; her Duty to Herself and to Others." At the meeting, January 29, Miss Jeanette Olmstead will give the paper, subject to be announced.

The quarterly meeting of the Central branch of King's Daughters was held in the parlors of the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon. In the absence of the regular officers, Mrs. Thos. C. Daniels presided, and Mrs. A. M. Woolson acted as secretary.

Rev. D. M. Fisk delivered an address on the individuality, duty and intrinsic dignity of womanhood as an outgrowth of Christianity, which was well received.

The secretary's report showed there are 73 circles of King's Daughters in the city, with 791 members, who are carrying on 27 different lines of work.

The next meeting of the branch will be held the first Friday afternoon in April, in St. Paul's M. E. church. The annual election will take place at this meeting. For the selection of officers for 1892-3 the following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. Henry Whittaker, First Congregational church; Mrs. J. T. Newton, Trinity; Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, Central Congregational; Mrs. Dr. Kirkley, St. Paul's M. E.; Miss Anna Janes, Westminster; Miss Kittie Baker, First Baptist.

The monthly Y meeting was held in the parlor of the same church, beginning at 4 o'clock, Miss Stewart presiding. After routine business three papers were read on "The Kindergarten," by Miss Cora Law, Miss Sue Balfe, Miss Belle Blakeslee. The papers and the discussions upon them were very interesting.

There will be a parlor meeting of the Ys Friday evening, January 15, with Miss Jessie Sedgwick, Adams and Eighteenth streets. All honorary members and friends of the Ys invited.

Arrangements for the meetings of the Toledo Society of Economic Inquiry have been made as follows: January meeting in Memorial hall annex, Monday evening, January 18; lecture by Rev. W. D. P. Bliss, Christian socialist and editor of "The Dawn," on some economic subject. February and March meetings, second Wednesday of the month, in Steadman business college. At the February meeting, Gov. Ashley's proposed amendment to the constitution will be discussed. At the March meeting the paper will be by Mr. A. E. Macomber, subject to be announced later. Annual election at the April meeting.

On the Friday afternoons alternating with the meetings of the Colloquial club, there will be talks on the Kindergarten given in the Misses Law's kindergarten rooms. At the first of these, January 22, the talk will be on "The Threefold Nature of the Child." All members of women's clubs and young mothers specially invited to attend.

The Noteman-Fisk marvelous gas burner is the all-absorbing talk on the streets, in the restaurants, on the cars and at the fireside. All over this city there are now about 250 in use. Reports are coming in every hour, and the uniform verdict is enthusiastic praise. In many instances the difference is so great between this scientific appliance for burning gas and the old way that there is absolutely no comparison. The company's rooms have been filled with people all day buying burners, and it is safe to predict that this zero weather will have no terrors for all users of the Noteman-Fisk Burner. The company desire to arrange with agents for outside territory.

TOLEDO, OHIO, JANUARY 9, 1892.

Where is the promised Chilean correspondence?

Now our Mr. Griffin wants to be a delegate at large to the national republican convention. Having been dumped so many times perhaps his party will let him succeed this time.

That alleged rebel flag on a cross-roads postoffice in southwestern Texas is a bonanza to the N. Y. Wail and Distress. It had fifteen lines in its head piece yesterday, over half as many lines of speculation about it.

The gross earnings of the New York Central & Hudson River railway for December were $4,050,979, nearly a million more than for the corresponding month last year. No wonder they couldn't put in a block signal system.

Will the administration, alias "Grandfather's Hat and Baby McKee" indorse Senator Sherman's indorsement of "the brilliant republican," Mr. Foraker? Mr. Sherman could afford to be generous to his opponent, but the case of the other man is quite different.

Gov. Flower already expands in the sunlight of official prosperity; he recommends that, inasmuch as the public, of a right, is interested in electrocution as a means of execution, newspaper reporters should be admitted to give the particulars of success or failure to the reading world.

A New York administration organ sneers because the democratic house in Washington took a half hour for debate and thereby saved $60 on a printing bill. If there's anything that makes an administration paper froth it's an exhibition of economy.

If the representatives from Toledo and Cleveland would consult the marine interests of their constituents, and assist in making six lake congressional districts instead of four, as at present, the work of securing necessary congressional appropriations would be more easily accomplished. This is a business suggestion.

The calculation is made by a railway authority that sleeping car companies make an average of $3,000 a year on a car that costs $10,000. Travelers across the continent will be surprised at the smallness of the figures of profit. They must allow the porters to retain all the fees the passengers give them.

The Cleveland Leader should not be so wrathy because democratic papers allude to the ways and means by which the late senatorial contest was conducted. The democrats have made no accusations, they have only reprinted the suggestions and charges from republican newspapers. The Commercial Gazette and Blade have furnished sufficient ammunition for more than one campaign.

Ex-Senator James W. McDill, of Iowa, takes Judge Cooley' place on the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Judge Lindsey, of Kentucky, who has been on the bench of the state court of appeals as chief justice for a number of years, that of Mr. Bragg. W. R. Morrison, of Illinois, succeeds himself and becomes the senior member of the board; the other members are Messrs. Veazey, of Vermont, and Knapp, of New York.

A memorial has been sent to congress from Boston, signed by many distinguished citizens, setting forth the evils of the sweating system, and petitioning governmental investigation for the purpose of legislation to check the evil. There is nothing this side of sheol more infernal than the sweating system, and it should be stamped out in every city where it flourishes, as it does in Boston. But are individuals powerless? And, if so, is the grand old commonwealth of Massachusetts unable to cope with this evil within her borders? Under what legitimate function of the national government is an investigation into Boston sweatshops permissable?

The United States stands at the head of the world's list in the possession of large farms, or, rather in the possesion of citizens who own sections, districts, townships, counties and ground enough for states. One Texas sheep rancher has under fence an enclosure larger than the state of Rhode Island. Senator Casey, of North Dakota has 5,000 acres under cultivation; the Grandin farm in Red River Valley has 15,000 acres and the Dalrymple farm in Dakota, 30,000. Gen. Bidwell's "Rancho Chico" contains 32,000 acres divided into orchards, grain fields, gardens and pasture lands, all in the highest state of cultivation. Add to these the immense tracts owned by foreign syndicates and the millions of acres donated to railway companies and it looks as if the small farmer who was once considered the hope of the country, must continue to dwindle.

The ridiculous charges which Judge Sala and Mayor Emmick preferred against Chief O'Dwyer were kicked out by the police board last night. The vote of exoneration was unanimous; even the Mayor voted to sustain the Chief. It must be said of Mr. Emmick that while he was originally a partner of Sala in this very small business, when he learned that public opinion was against the movement he slipped out like an eel and left Sala to bear the brunt and censure. The original charge against Mr. O'Dwyer was the meanest little thing that has been done in Toledo for a long time, but it is no more than is to be expected from our very, very small police judge. The Blade, too, mixed in this same mess and attempted to magnify the mole hill into a big mountain. The vindication of the Chief is gratifying to all good citizens.

The most stalwart of the Foraker organs have felt called upon to try to explain away the break Mr. Foraker made in the Columbus speech in his reference to "Grandfather's Hat" and "Baby McKee," and nearly all our Ohio republican exchanges have the grace to show they are sincerely ashamed of it. Nevertheless the thing said sounded so very ugly that the apologies are very lame. That of the Tiffin Tribune is as follows:

The ex-governor meant no offense and did not intend it as a slur—it was a slip of the tongue. He never makes a speech without some remark he thinks will enthuse his hearers and raise applause. His followers that night were so enthusiastic and excited that any one of them would have applauded had he slurred their grandmothers. The ex-governor and his friends are great on enthusiasm and this was only a remark to start a yell and was not meant to convey the idea implied.

Is this a bona fide attempt at exculpation, or is it sarcasm thinly veiled? "A remark to start a yell." "His followers" would applaud if "he slurred their grandmothers." "The ex-governor meant no offense," etc. Better drop the subject, gentlemen, and give it a chance to sink into oblivion. But it will not.

With the largest cereal crop ever known in the Union, reported for the year just passed, the country should have no famished people and hungry tramps in its borders, and no starving neighbors. The official estimates sent out from Washington yesterday are as follows:

The crops of corn, wheat and oats, including all but 2 or 3 per cent. of the cereal aggregate, are reported. The total for corn has only been exceeded once. The wheat product is the largest ever grown in any country, and the yield per acre in the United States is the largest ever reported by the department of agriculture. The total for oats was slightly exceeded in 1889.

The aggregates are as follows: Corn—Area, 76,204,515 acres; product, 2,060,154,000 bushels; value $836,439,228.

Oats—Area, 25,581,861 acres; product, 736,394,000 bushels; value, $232,312,267.

The aggregate of all the cereals is the largest yet produced, and will supply 54 to 55 bushels per unit of population. The wheat supply is the largest ever ever reported in proportion to the population, averaging 9.4 bushels to each person, against 9.2 for the largest previous crop, in 1884. The average value to the farmer is 40.6 cents for corn, 85.93 for wheat and 31.46 cents for oats. The value of wheat is greater than in any year since 1883, that of the short crop of 1888 alone excepted.

The products are in measured bushels.

THE GIFT FOR RUSSIA.

The project of the Northwest, to send a ship load of flour and grain to the starving peasantry of Russia has run onto snags in the House. First the treasury is empty and worse, thanks to the reckless scattering of the people's money by the 51st congress, there is no one hundred thousand dollars to be had to send a ship with the donation. It was agreed that it was too expensive a way of reaching the case: to sell the goods and send the proceeds in cash would be more business-like. Another obstacle was the determination of justice-loving men that equal distribution to Russians and Jews alike should be guaranteed. The chivalrous southerners said, "don't follow your gift with a menace and an order; give freely and grandly or not at all." Again it was said, Russia is rich enough to feed her own people; she has placed herself outside the pale of sympathy by the barbarous treatment she has given the Jews, exiling them, half-starved, to our own country to be housed and fed. If Russia wants our flour let her buy it or at least pay freightage to her ports. The strongest objecton was the doubtful constitutionality of giving the people's money to aid sufferers in a foreign country. The conclusion of the whole matter was: there is no money to pay for a ship and its voyage and Uncle Sam has no ship to spare just now. So the matter was dropped.

Wednesday last was Christmas in Russia according to the Julian calendar, and the prospect of aid from our bounty was one cause for rejoicing. Up to January 1 twenty states had contributed flour, New York leading with 579,180 pounds, Minnesota 554,780, and Minneapolis, which claims the honor of originating the scheme, 430,850 pounds; Pennsylvania comes next in order, then Kansas, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio in the order named. Ohio contributes 72,760 pounds. Total: 2,056,430 pounds. Cash contributions amount to $1,427.44.

It is very awkward, to say the least, that a hitch should come at this advanced stage of the proceeding, but there are ready and established channels through which all contributions may flow. Isabel F. Hapgood, an intimate friend of the Tolstoi family (which has undertaken the fair and speedy distribution of supplies from their headquarters in Moscow), is made their agent in this country, and already reports liberal cash contributions. There will be less glory in this manner of reaching the needy, but also less expense and more expedition. Her address is 9 East Twenty-second street, New York. In concluding this review of the situation the Bee is moved to remark that it would be well, perhaps, to open a depot of supplies for the hungry poor in this country and for our Mexican neighbors at the same time.

As a rule the Southerners are very conservative concerning the rights and privileges of women in their relations to public life. The New Orleans Delta gives prominent editorial mention, however, to the "Woman's Anti-Lottery League," which shows how intense is the sentiment on the subject that old and strong prejudices are thus over-ridden.

Dr. Briggs' "heresy" has cost the Union Seminary $21,000 in a lump. A Baltimorean who had bequeathed that sum to the Union has changed his will and transferred the gift to another institution which believes in the miraculous conception, infallible inspiration and the eternal punishment of the wicked.

Pious Col. Shepard and divinely mild and sweet Sir Edwin Arnold have both been saying "damn" in print. The Colonel has explained that he considers it an emphatic expletive and not a swear word; now Mr. Arnold—

The Immaculate G. O. P.

Gen. H. V. Boynton, a prominent republican, says "that the republican party in Hamilton county is controlled by an organization of a lower order of political morality and work than any similar organization in either party any where else in the United States." This, no doubt, will come in the nature of a surprise to those who always believed that every member of the g. o. p. was a saint with the smile of a seraph and in full possession of immaculate wings.—Bucyrus Forum.

Young-Man-Not-Afraid-of-His-Tongue.

Foraker was called upon by his followers for a speech at Columbus last week, and, of course, he responded, for he never was known to refuse. In his harangue he drew a long knife and proceeded to carve President Harrison, ex-Gov. Foster and the whole administration down to poor, innocent little baby McKee. Joseph Benson is a bloodthirsty brave when he puts on the war paint.—Defiance Democrat.

In Desperate Straits.

The record of the republican party in Ohio politics has never been creditable, but the condition of the party was never before what it is to-day. When men differ on questions of public policy, there is always a hope that some good may come out of a conflict of opinions; but when a political party is divided in matters involving personal honesty, there is no longer hope for its usefulness.—Columbus Post.

The Protectionist's Way.

With French china, French menu cards and French dishes at the Harrison banquets of state, this country of home protection (in a horn) is going to the dogs—or, in this case, to the frogs. But that is the way all the protectionists do.—Youngstown Vindicator.

The Weather Accounted For.

Some people will assure you that mercury always has a downward tendency with the political ascendency of John Sherman.—Goshen News.

The Lonely Republicans' Reproof.

Many lonesome republican members pass Tommy Reed's seat with an expression of reproof—You did this.—Massillonian.

THE LATE REPUBLICAN ROW.

How It Is Viewed by Some of the Bee's Ohio Exchanges.

The money power never needed Sherman any worse than it does now.—Pomeroy Democrat.

The Commercial-Enquirer's "political gossip essence" has simmered.—Springfield Republic-Times, Rep.

Foraker had the republican masses with him. But Sherman had a check book with him.—Zanesville Signal, Dem.

The election of John Sherman will not add one cent to the income of any laboring man in Ohio.—Springfield Democrat.

Sherman's boodle did the business according to the disappointed and defeated Forakerites.—Auglaize County Democrat.

Mr. Foraker will make it decidedly warm for Harrison's aspirations to carry Ohio for a second term.—St. Clairsville Gazette, Rep.

The "young bloods" of the Commercial Gazette are looking at each other and inquiring "Whar am we now?"—Daily Trojan, Rep.

No roosters are trotted out to-day by the local Foraker organ—possibly because roosters crow and crow, you know, well—they're sick of crow.—Mansfield Shield and Banner, Dem.

The attempt of the Toledo Blade to "pulverize" John Sherman had about as much effect as its efforts to "pulverize the rum power."—Findlay Courier, Dem.

Let's see! What is it that the Foraker men have been saying about Sherman and the Sherman men saying about Foraker?—Lancaster Eagle, Dem.

Foraker is a great fighter, and what most worries the other ambitions Ohio republicans is he will never stay whipped.—Clinton County Democrat.

The champions of both the candidates are saying meaner things about both Sherman and Foraker than ever the democrats thought of saying about republicans.—Delphos Herald, Rep.

It was a fight between the kids and mossbacks in which the latter had the advantage of political acumen and the former of an over-stock of wind.—Fostoria Times, Ind. Dem.

The Foraker gang in Ohio have declared war to the knife and the knife to the hilt against Baby McKee's grandfather. The fun has only just commenced.—Mt. Vernon Banner, Dem.

The bitterness of the contest between the Sherman and Foraker factions will not down until Ohio is delivered over bodily to the democratic party.—Norwalk Experiment-News, Dem.

Never in the history of Ohio has there been such interference on the part of a national administration as has been the case in this selection of a United States senator.—Tiffin News, Ind. Dem.

Two years ago Sherman charged Foraker with forgery. This year Foraker accuses Sherman of bribery. The only difference is that Sherman proved his bill of particulars.—Lima Times, Dem.

When Foraker gets knocked out in the ring to-night he should console himself with the thought that "he is young" and liable to be knocked out several times more.—Fremont News, Ind. Rep.

The C. G. now resembles the amateur who prepared himself elaborately to play Othello. Its black eye of two years ago has spread into black and blue over the entire surface.—Cincinnati Times-Star, Rep.

Ex-Gov. Foraker is conceded to be a brutant man, but he is not regarded as a safe man. His defeat should serve as a lesson to all young men who aspire to political preferment.—Alliance Leader, Rep.

Mr. Foraker should try Montana for a residence. The republicans have a way to get into the senate from out there, that would suit his situation. It involves nerve and no money.—Massalonian, Dem.

Ere the Herald comes to you again John Sherman will have been re-elected United States senator from Ohio, and many misguided republicans will be looking in vain for a way out of the tureen.—Jackson Herald, Rep.

Were all the inside facts—the wheels within the wheels—incidental to the senatorial contest just closed fully written out, it would be the most interesting chapter in the history of Ohio politics.—Fostoria Review, Rep.

We have on hand an able editorial showing why Senator Sherman should retire. We have put it on ice where it will remain for about six years. It is full of facts, but at this writing it is not just appropriate.—Lima Republican-Gazette.

If but one-half that is said about Senator Sherman and Joe Foraker by their respective party enemies is true, neither is any more fit to be returned to the senate than John T. Norris is to exhort at a religious revival.—Madison County Democrat.

Mr. Adams is more to be pitied than censured. He has been duped by the Sherman haters and led on by false boasts of the Foraker boomers until thus early in his career he finds himself stranded on the rocks of the political sea.—Zanesville Times-Recorder, Rep.

Sherman goes back to the senate. Money talks, and no man has any show for high honors in the republican party who is not rich, or who is not a suppliant tool of the monopolists who have their iron grip upon the United States senate.—Canton News-Democrat, Dem.

The young men of the republican party have been snubbed, spit upon, and the saliva rubbed in. Perhaps they like it. It may be they will humbly give thanks and ask for some more of the same kind. We are curious to know what they propose to do about it.—Plain Dealer, Dem.

The Register quotes Senator Carlisle as saying that Senator Sherman has made the most lasting impression on our affairs of any man of his time. Nobody will dispute that. It's the kind of an impression that he has made that we have been talking about.—Marietta Times, Dem.

It is a matter of concern to know how the Toledo Blade, the Commercial Gazette, the Mansfield News, and some of the other strong Foraker papers will let themselves down. They have been so bluff that not one of them provided a soft spot on which to light.—Van Wert Bulletin, Rep.

Boodle and fossilized leaders are still in control of the republican party of Ohio. Vim, vigor and victory counts for nothing. The young men of the party, and the real workers in the party campaigns, are compelled to step aside when high official honors are to be distributed.—Bucyrus Forum, Dem.

J. B. Foraker to-day is as strong as he ever was in Ohio. The question was not of men, but of who could best serve Ohio. Mr. Foraker represents the active, working element of the republicans of this state. Mr. Sherman represents the nation. As between the state of Ohio and the nation the state naturally went down.—Bucyrus Telegram, Rep.

And now, what has that mangy, scurrillous villifier of great men, the Toledo Blade, to offer in excuse for the disgrace it has brought upon the profession of journalism by its course in the campaign just past? "What trick, what device, what starting-hole, canst thou now find out, to hide thee from this open and apparent shame?"—Wood County Sentinel, Rep.

Republican gains in northwestern Ohio at the last election were due almost entirely to the efforts of Senator Sherman, and yet this section of the state almost to a county ignored the claims of the Mansfield statesman, and flocked to the standard of Foraker. Sherman is not noted for his forgiving nature, and republican statesmen in this neighborhood will receive evidence of it before long.—Paulding Democrat.

HAD BETTER STAID AT HOME.

William Johnson Appeared as a Witness and Is Now In It Himself.

Adam River, of Montezuma, Mercer county, had a hearing before U. S. District Attorney Beckham yesterday afternoon charged with selling liquor without a license, and at the conclusion was dismissed.

A short time ago William Johnson, of the same place, was arrested on the same charge. On the preliminary trial Johnson was discharged, as the evidence failed to show him guilty.

Johnson was subpoenaed in the case yesterday and was present. As the evidence developed the details of the case it was demonstrated that Williams was guilty, and he was taken into custody forthwith. He gave $200 bond to appear at the next term of court.

LIEUT.-GOV. CAMPBELL.

And when I speak of my wife and children I am reminded that this day—I don't know whether this is the day or not, I haven't my watch with me, but the day was begun with this dinner—for this is a two-day's affair. (Laughter). We make no one-day stands in this company. (More laughter). I am reminded that this day, aside from the kind memories I shall carry of its anniversary—this 4th day of January, 1870, I was married. (Applause). From my standpoint I know why I was married. (Laughter). From the girl's standpoint I think it was because she was young and didn't know any better. (Great laughter). However, God bless her, she has managed to hold her own. (Applause) and while for one week longer I shall everywhere else in the boundaries of this great state exercise the functions and enjoy the privileges of the governor of the state, yet over at No. 282 on this street, I only claim to be the lieutenant-governor. (Great applause and laughter).

A Voice—There are more of us in the same fix.

Gov. Campbell—Well, Mr. Peabody, I did not suppose I had a monopoly on that. (Continued laughter). Those of you who are married I think I could call as witnesses. (More laughter).—From the governor's speech at the Columbus banquet.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS

That the police force is suffering from the grip.

That Toledo could have a ball club if the proper people took hold of it.

That ante-convention pledges rise to haunt the people who break them.

That Cherry street market place will hereafter be known as the haymarket.

That the gardeners want the street scales removed from the Monroe street market.

That for the past week electric cars have mostly run in sections, two or three together.

That President Squire kept his fingers out of the senatorial fight. Wise man is Squire.

That Rev. Dr. Fish will take his hearers with him to-morrow night on "A Look at the Stars."

That to succeed in republican politics hereafter one must get credentials from the Shermanites.

That the Foraker-Sherman fight has only just commenced.

That Toledo may have a good race meeting this spring. The right men are now behind the movement.

That it does not pay to bore mixers. As soon as discovered, the customer is relieved of the little instrument.

That farmers are taking advantage of the fine sleighing to bring in their pork and return home with merchandise.

That Toledo public officials who indorsed both candidates in the senatorial fight find it hard to explain matters.

That a good way to straighten out affairs at the police clerk's office would be to elect a democratic officer this spring.

That pastors state the grip played havoc with attendance at church during the observance of the week of prayer.

That Councilman Coleman proposes to fight the street car conductor ordinance through if it takes another term to do it.

That the Noteman gas burner will be welcomed if it can make gas where there is none, as has been the case this week, especially in lower town.

That Manager Heston has been down in the gas field, and is ready to report a full supply—when the weather is such that it is not needed.

That Ohio federal office-holders have commenced the work of picking out delegates to the national convention. No Foraker men need apply, either.

That Dr. Rorick has secured at least one vote for asylum superintendent by the appointment of ex-Senator Geyser as trustee. Both hail from Fulton county.

That City Solicitor Read's warning to the street committee was a step in the right direction. He might repeat the same remarks at Monday night's gas trustee meeting with profit.

That it is plain all the bulldozing in the senatorial fight was not done by Sherman men, else Heller would have stood by his original promise.

That Griffin, Conger, Bushnell, and Foraker will be pitted against Sherman, McKinley, Hanna, and Grosvenor for big-four honors to the Minneapolis convention.

That Col. Joe Bonner is entitled to the Lucas county delegateship to Minneapolis. He is in line of promotion, as he was alternate to the Harrison convention at Chicago.

That Hon. C. A. Flickinger comes home with his colors flying, and at pence with himself, for having kept his political pledge and voted the wishes of his constituents.

That the joint session called for Monday evening will likely be a fizzle, as many of the municipal statesmen are booked for the inauguration celebration, and will not be home in time.

That there are over 400 applications on file with the Northwestern Gas company for change from the city line, on account of the failure of the latter to furnish enough of nature's fuel to keep warm.

That the absence of ex-Congressman Romeis' name on the Flickinger telegram of congratulation was noticed by many. This can be explained because of the fact that the two German leaders do not speak as they pass by.

That it is plainly evident, by the telegram of congratulation to Representative Flickinger, that all Germans were not opposed to Senator Sherman, as witness Gen. Kountz, Mayor Emmick, Herman Baumbach, Fred Ritter and Henry Spielbusch.

EDITOR ALBRECHT'S FUNERAL

One of the Largest Held in Toledo for Some Time.

The funeral of Mr. Arnold Albrecht, city editor of the German Express, who was killed by being thrown from an electric car last Tuesday, took place yesterday afternoon from his residence on Nebraska avenue and the remains were intered in Forest cemetery.

Mr. Albrecht belonged to a large number of German and other societies, and they attended the funeral in a body, making it one of the largest seen in Toledo for some time.

The funeral orations were delivered by Prof. Friedberg and Mr. Vordtriede of the Express, and the music was by the Teutonia Maennerchor.

Mr. Albrecht was held in highest esteem by all who knew him, and the immense concourse that followed him to his last resting place showed the grief that is felt at his sudden end.

LAUREL AS A NATIONAL FLOWER.

I often see in the newspaper articles urging the adoption of the rose as our national flower. It seems to me we ought not to think of appropriating to ourselves that flower, for it has been England's emblem for many centuries. Will you not say a word in favor of the laurel, which is native in so large a portion of our country? It is not a summer friend, to smile only in the days of warmth and sunshine, but is bright and cheery in its winter dress of glossy green. It adds to the beauty of our Christmas decorations, and, to the joy of our glad Easter festival. It is sturdy and self-reliant. It is never discouraged by unfavorable surroundings. For these and other characteristics is it eminently to be our chosen emblem?—New York Times.

THE BUSY BEE.

It is estimated that bees, in order to collect one pound of honey, must visit and extract all the nectar contained in 62,000 heads of clover of the average size. This herculean task (for the bees) would necessitate 3,750,000 trips to and from the hive.

Wax is a substance secreted by the bee, and is analogous to the fat of the higher animals. The wax of a species of bee common in Patagonia, Terra del Fuego and other parts of southern South America and the adjacent islands, is a dark blue in color and is said to be more poisonous than arsenic.

A hive of 5,000 bees will produce about 50 pounds of honey annually, and will multiply about tenfold in five years. According to latest statistics the total number of hives in the United States and Europe is 7,424,000, and the annual product of honey 183,000,000 pounds.

STEINMAN FOUND GUILTY.

Joseph Steinman, arrested yesterday for cutting John Miller, a tramp cigar maker in the chin, as mentioned in the Bee, was tried in police court this morning on a charge of assault and battery. He was found guilty and fined $5 and costs.

A LONE HIGHWAYMAN.

Stockton, Cal., Jan. 9.—The San Andress stage was robbed by a lone highwayman near Mokelumme yesterday. The driver was compelled at the muzzle of a shot gun to throw out the express packages and empty his pockets.

FOUNDRY BURNED.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The steel works foundry of this city were burned last night. Loss, $45,000; insurance, $25,000.

MILLS BURNED.

Clarksville, Ga., Jan. 8.—The woolen mills known as the Clarksville mills, were burned last night. Loss, $100,000. Two hundred people are thrown out of work.

Soothing to Republican Farmers.

Wool is one cent lower since the election of McKinley. This is surely soothing to the republican farmers who voted for Tin-plate McKinley.—Akron Times.

TOLEDO YACHTSMEN

Do Not Favor the Cruising System on Lake Erie.

Buffalo and Cleveland Are in Favor of It, and the Coming Detroit Meeting Will Probably Settle the Matter.

At the monthly meeting of the Ohio Yacht club, held last evening, Commodore Bills, who presided, reported on the meeting held at Cleveland December 21 regarding an interstate association on Lake Erie. "Eight clubs were represented at the meeting," he said, "and all the delegates were anxious to form a new association. The meeting resulted in no definite action as it was only held to ascertain the feeling of the various yachtsmen on the lake in the matter. Another meeting will be held at Detroit at Hotel Cadillac, Tuesday afternoon, January 19, at 4 o'clock, which would give the various clubs interested time to talk the matter over at their respective meetings. The Buffalo yachtsmen were in favor of organizing after the plan of the Lake Ontario association, which was to cruise about a circuit of seven or eight cities that would up purses of $300 to $500 each for a race."

Commodore Bills did not think such an association would meet with favor here as there were many small yachts in the O. Y. C. that were not seaworthy enough to make the long trips. Cleveland unites with Buffalo in favor of the cruising system, while Toledo and Put-in-Bay are in favor of meets.

It will be necessary to secure the cooperation of one of the Detroit clubs to defeat the cruising system. An effort in this direction will be made. All Toledo yachtsmen interested are requested to attend the Detroit meeting whether they are delegates or not, to make a good front. The following regular delegates were appointed:

G. W. Bills, V. H. Ketcham, Henry Tracy, J. A. Faskins, F. A. Lee, J. F. Zahm, C. P. Curtis, Charles Klauser, and Ed T. Reeve, the latter a Detroit member of the O. Y. C. Secretary Gunckel will also be there.

Last evening the following new members were admitted: J. V. Sanfleet, H. J. Van Buskirk, Charles A. Smith, Sumner P. Shelly, and Harvey Wylie.

Col. C. H. Voute has been appointed collector, and Dennison Steele and Frank Purney have been added to the house committee.

After the meeting the Spanish students favored the club with music and a pleasant social time followed the business session. The O. Y. C. is rapidly getting into smooth water financially, and arrangements are being made for plenty of fun the coming season.

GREEN AND HIS TWO WIVES.

The police have obtained some information from Cleveland regarding Allen Green, the negro preacher, under arrest for stealing pork. Two women claim to be wives of Allen and say they were married in Cleveland. The records at Cleveland only show his marriage to one of them, and this one had the proper certificate.

SWINDLERS ARRESTED.

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 9.—A. Shepard, of Buffalo, N. Y., supposed to be one of a trio of swindlers who have been taking orders for photographs in this city, was arrested last night.

A FORCED DENIAL.

City of Mexico, Jan. 9.—The archbishop of Mexico denies that the clergy are aiding the Garza revolution.

The lily is as white as snow,
The rose is as the crimson red;
But neither can surpass in glow,
The color or the brightness shed,
By the sweet lips and teeth allied
That SOZODONT has purified.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Young Lady Patient—Doctor, what do you do when you burn your mouth with hot coffee? Doctor—Swear.—Plutarch's Decameron.

"I hear that Miss Upperbridge gave you a handsome Christmas present?" "Yes, she did." "What was it?" "She returned my photograph."—Oil City Blizzard.

"I wish I hadn't eaten that apple," said he, ruefully. "Why, was it a bad one?" "Well, I believe it was spoiling for a fight," and his face took on a look of pain.—St. Joseph News.

According to a current literary note Frank Stockton is so painstaking an author that he frequently waits hours for a word. He must have his words sent him by a district messenger boy.—Chicago Times.

Said a mother—"Now you repeat after me, George—'Now I lay me.'" "Now—I—lay—me," slowly from George. "'Down'—you know the rest," continues his mother. "'Down went McGinty,'" responds George.—Babyland.

Playwright—"Is her acting natural?" Manager (enthusiastically)—"Why, when she appeared as the dying mother last night a life insurance agent who has her insured for $20,000, and who was in the audience, actually fainted."—Brooklyn Life.

Petroleum as a Medicine

DR. C. L. DREESE, Goshen, Ind., writes:

"In the treatment of the mucous membranes, especially of the nose, throat, and lungs, I find Angier's Petroleum Emulsion a sovereign remedy. It has given me finer results than any Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil I ever used."

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion
WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES

Contains all the properties of the crude oil; yet is so highly refined as to be almost tasteless. Don't confound it with Cod Liver Oil preparations. It is entirely unlike them. In

Consumption, Bronchitis,

Asthma, Sore Throat, Pneumonia, La Grippe, and their serious after effects, it is positively without a peer. It builds up the system, puts flesh on the wasted frame, and assists nature in effecting a cure.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Dec. 31st, 1891.

The committee on ways and means of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office to

at 7 o'clock p. m. for the purchase of Street Improvement Bonds, to the amount of Sixteen Hundred and Seven 98-100 ($1,607 98-100) Dollars, bearing date Dec. 28, 1891, and payable as follows:

One Hundred and Sixty-Seven 98-100 ($167 98-100) Dollars on June 28th, 1893, and One Hundred and Sixty Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter to and including Dec. 28, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to Section 2704 to 2707 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Magnolia street, from Michigan street to Champlain street."—Passed Dec. 14th, 1891.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for improvement bonds."

UNANOINTED.

We know that through the viewless air,
Though not a mote seems floating there,
There may be crossing everywhere—

Beings of an ethereal guise,
Betwixt our earthly-holden eyes
And the far reaches of the skies—

A realm within a realm; yet we
With unanointed vision see
No token of its mystery.

God's messengers—they come and go
Unfelt, unheeded by us, though
They touch us passing to and fro.

In mystic circles they enwreathe
Us all around, above, beneath,
And fan the very air we breathe.

What respite in our wild despair
The thought would bring us did we dare
Believe our darling dead were there!

What consolation, heavenly bright,
Would hush our anguish if we might
Still hold their deathless care in sight!

So near they may be—ah, so near!—
And yet we bend no conscious ear
The folding of their wings to hear.

There are no cats within the limits of Leadville, Col., the thin atmosphere at that altitude, 10,200 feet, being fatal to them. They are, however, not required, the town being free from rats and mice from the same cause.

The Woman's Club, of New Orleans, can hardly be called a society of high livers. Not long ago they gave a banquet to 110 that cost the startling sum of $30. It is needless to say that the men were not full.

General Annenkoff's exploit in railroad building and equipment seems wonderful in Russia. He built 1,250 miles of railroad, from Samarcand to the Caspian Sea, much of it along the edge of a desert, in eighteen months.

The islands of Lake Nicaragua are rich in idols and pottery, especially the southwest side of the slopes of that most picturesque of volcanoes, Omotepe. This island was evidently the cemetery for all the region around, who worshipped the flaming cone as the god of fire.

To distinguish genuine butter from oleomargarine the following test is recommended: Draw a knife through a piece of the questioned butter and separate the parts thus divided. If it ever saw the inside of a churn there will be watery exudations in the track of the knife.

The surroundings of a life determine whether or not life is worth living. In previous years in England the greatest number of suicides occurred among the old soldiers, but since the conditions of the service were changed the number of suicides of young soldiers have been the greater.

When a man deals with trees of any sort he must be willing to wait for returns. It takes a long time for the cocoanut tree to attain its full condition of bearing—seven years—but when this time has passed it is a mine of wealth, and happy he who can call a plantation of 100 acres his own.

Abduction became so common in England in the reign of Tudor princes that a statute was passed on the subject, and this was followed by an act of Elizabeth, which took away the benefit of clergy from the offender, and it was not till so late as the reign of George IV. that the crime ceased to be a capital offense and punishable by death.

Frederick Douglass has recently secured a place as clerk in the agricultural department for the daughter of his old master in the days of slavery. The lady was brought up in extreme luxury, but has for ten years experienced great privations and when the case was presented to Secretary Rusk he appreciated its poetic and pathetic aspects.

The editor of the Billsville Banner is out with the following announcement: "We took out an accident policy last Monday and had the good fortune to break two of our legs ten minutes afterward, for which we will get $200." As it cost him only $10 to have both his legs set, and as he can go on editing the paper just as well as before, he calculates that he is in $190 by the transaction.

Probably the first American application of the suggestion of Alexander Dumas, the French novelist, that the guests at banquets should be taxed for worthy objects, was made by Erastus Wiman on Tuesday evening. He took up a collection for the poor at a dinner he gave in New York. It was intended to limit the assessment to a quarter, but over $25 was the sum contributed by the forty guests.

An organization has been incorporated at Baltimore with the title of "The Colonial Dames of Baltimore City and State of Maryland." The object of the society is the preservation of the family history of persons who were useful to their country in colonial times, and to excite emulation and patriotism in future generations.

People are often easily amused. A bottle containing the very ink with which Russell Sage did not write a million dollar check for the madman who was "hoist with his own petard" is on exhibition and draws crowds. Of course, New York dearly loves a crowd.

According to Danish papers considerable concern is felt in Copenhagen over the fate of the vessel Hekla, which carried the Ryder expedition to Greenland. For three months no word has been received from the steamer. When last heard from the expedition was in 73 degrees north latitude. It was hoped that the ship which arrived recently from Iceland would bring news of the Hekla, but it failed to do so. It is believed that the vessel has gone to the north of Greenland to complete its cargo or to establish a station.

THE JANUARY WEATHER.

As Seen Through Prof. Foster's Glasses.

Another Storm to Cross the Country.

Animal Magnetism Discussed at Length—A Scientific Talk on a Most Interesting Subject.

Copyrighted, 1892, by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 9.—Last week's letter gave detailed forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from 8th to 12th, and the next will be due to reach our Pacific coast about the 12th, cross the Rocky Mountains by the 14th, the great central valleys from 15th to 17th, and reach the Atlantic coast about the 18th. About the 19th, a temporary disturbance will appear on the head waters of the Missouri, and will cause unsettled weather till after the next regular storm wave passes eastward.

This storm wave will probably take a northern route, affecting the latitudes of the lakes more than any other parts of the country. During its journey across the continent the weather will be quite warm in the southern states, attended by mild rains, and the cool wave following it will not be severe in the south.

The cool wave will be due to cross the Rockies about the 16th, the great central valleys about the 18th, and to reach the Atlantic coast about the 19th or 20th. This cold wave will be most severe in western Nebraska about the 17th, and in the eastern states about the 19th or 20th.

Animal Magnetism.

Our knowledge of animal magnetism is yet crude, because this branch of electricity has not been so carefully investigated. I believe that this strange influence is the same that we observe in the natural magnet, the only difference being that one has a live animal as the magnetic body, while the other has a piece of magnetic iron. Each of these depend on the earth's electric currents for their electric energies.

In order to better illustrate this subject, I have requested Prof. N. Kolkin, of Kenyon, Goodhue county, Minnesota, to give me for publication his investigations on atmospheric electric currents. I quote from him:

"Formerly the French academy had often occasion to sit as judges of the scientific value of certain peculiar experiments that were undertaken, sometimes by men with a scientific education, but oftener by the unscientific, who had an open eye for all the marvellous and unexplained in nature around them. That time is long past, and book-learned dudes simply refer all who speculate on similar experiments to the decisions of the French academy. These popular experiments were not scientific and reliable; in fact nothing is, in the very start, scientific and reliable. The experiments consisted in holding between the thumb and forefinger a pendulum made of a fiber or thread, with a weight or knob of the size of a watch key at one end, and then noting the movements of this pendulum. We see that such experiments can never become scientific. Still, the movements of the pendulums thus suspended from the hand were always very peculiar. Sometimes they would hang perfectly still, while it would take an effort of the experimenter to put it into oscillation, and sometimes their oscillation would be very violent and could not be controlled by the experimenter. Here the learned judges found a very easy explanation. The oscillations were produced by unconscious muscular action in the hand of the experimenter, which action was sometimes greater and sometimes less. It seems that that explains a good many of those experiments, but by no means all of them.

"Those same experimenters were not satisfied with that decision; for they found that the experiments indicated conditions outside of their organisms, though they had to admit that involuntary muscular action was the cause of mistakes made. They found, for instance, that when the pendulum was put in oscillation by a slight effort, and its knob permitted to strike against a small block of wood, the oscillation would subside sooner when the wood was of young growth than when it was of an old one. The same was the case when the fiber in the pendulum was of young growth. Then, again, they found that, at times, experiments of that kind were impossible. The pendulum would constantly oscillate between northwest and southeast, or between east and west.

"To find whether there is a scientific principle involved in these unscientific experiments we must not only speculate on and talk about them, as those learned judges did, but suspend pendulums under conditions similar to those that are present when pendulums are suspended by hand.

"The hand may be held quite still for a moment, when a person holds it out in front of him, but it will soon have a shivering motion. A shivering consists of rapid, successive movements in all possible directions, vertically and horizontally. Note also, that in the unscientific experiments mentioned, the hand is to be held still, but not with a marked forcible effort.

"Can we not produce a mechanism that imitates the shivering of the hand? Of course we can. The writer has produced such mechanisms, less or more perfect, though not absolutely perfect, and he finds that a pendulum suspended from a shivering point is made sensitive to forces in nature that are not otherwise taken note of. We know from experience that that which is imperfect in the beginning may be improved nearly to perfection.

"The ideal perfection here, is a rapid succession of vibrations in all directions, horizontally, vertically, and there between, with no greater, or not more, vibrations in one direction than any of the others. From a point thus vibrating, the pendulum is to be suspended.

"What are those vibrations for? They neutralize the inertia of the pendulum entirely. Gravitation is not inertia, but momentum downward. The inertia neutralized is not replaced by momentum, on account of the rapidly changing movements. There is one momentum left; that is gravitation.

"A pendulum thus suspended has been called an astatic pendulum. It will indicate currents of something in the atmosphere which the writer has called ethereal matter. This it does by oscillating in the direction of the current. It also indicates what is termed electric currents in the atmosphere, as well as a force connected with the human organism which is called akasa by Hindoo occulists. It shows that electric or ethereal currents precede all storms. The various experiments that can be made with it are explained in my little work, "Ethereal Matter, Electricity and Akasa."

"Can a current of cosmic ether or electricity, or a movement of akasa, set that astaticized pendulum in motion; that is, put it into a marked oscillation? If gravitation were nihilated, it might. As it is, the impetus which it receives in different directions can produce no momentum in any of them, except in one in which an electric or ethereal current is running. To put it short and in a popular fashion: When you try to swing a plumb back and forth rapidly in all directions, it will not swing in any of them, except a current of electricity through the air should be running in one of the directions. In that direction it will take up an oscillation.

"You will find it easy to swing a free pendulum back and forth in the direction of an electric current through the atmosphere, without conscious effort. The writer was once watching the lumbermen on the platform beside St. Anthony Falls in Minneapolis, as they loaded lumber. There was a cloudy, heavy atmosphere, but no wind. They had poles with chains and hooks at one end, which were used to bind the load with. This pole was often thrown down a distance from the load, and when this was to be bound, a man went and got a pole, carrying it over his shoulder with the chain and hook hanging behind him. For half a day, those who went westword when they carried the pole, had the chain always pounding them in the back; those who went northward never, but it would show a tendency to swing east and west. The writer knows now, that in such weather there are often electric currents through the atmosphere from east to west, which is generally followed by wind from the same direction."

In order to show that all electric currents are the same, and that animal magnetism is the effects of electric currents from the human mind, I will, in a future letter, give Prof. Kolkins' experiments with mind currents.

BOUCICAULT-BUSBY.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The forthcoming marriage of Miss Mamie Busby to Aubrey Boucicault, both members of Stuart Robson's company, is announced. The marriage will take place next Monday morning and the ceremony will be performed by Mayor Washburne. The groom is the son of the dead playright, Dion Boucicault, and the bride is the daughter of a wealthy eastern manufacturer. Stuart Robson will act as best man.

BACK FROM AFRICA.

Southampton, Jan. 9.—Lord Randolph Churchill arrived at Southampton to-day from South Africa. He looked bronzed by exposure to the sun and had a more manly appearance than when he left England. He was met on arrival by Lady Churchill, his wife (formerly Miss Jennie Jerome, of New York). Their meeting was of the most cordial description.

BLAINE'S REAL CONDITION.

He Is Much Worse Than People Think.

He is Losing Interest in His Work and His Spirits Can Not be Revived.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The condition of Secretary Blaine is reported to be improving, but the fact remains that he is far from being a well man.

His physician, Dr. Hyatt, continues to assert that indigestion alone was the cause of the last attack.

While this is indorsed by the other physicians who were called in the fact is that Mr. Blaine has been mentally depressed since being overcome, and his doctor has been unable to restore him to a cheerful state of mind.

It is said that the secretary of state has been dreading a break-down ever since he returned to his desk last fall, and that the attack of Wednesday has affected his spirits most unfavorably.

His physician has treated him successfully so far as the stomach troubles were concerned, but has been unable to overcome the mental depression from which his distinguished patient suffers.

The most ardent of Blaine's supporters begin to show that they lack confidence in the repeated assertions that he is physically able to enter another presidential contest, and their apprehensions seem to be borne out by the facts.

The personal discomfort and the worry of a constant cough, and the soreness of lungs and throat which usually attend it, are all remedied by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a safe medicine for pulmonary disorders and throat affections.

THE LAW STANDS.

Common Pleas Decision on the Massie Bill.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—Judge Evans, of the common pleas court, of this city, has rendered a decision settling, so far as this court is concerned, the constitutionality of Senator Massie's incorporation fee law, fixing the fee at 1-10th of 1 per cent of the capital stock.

The suit was brought by the Pittsburg, Akron & Western railroad company, whose capital stock is $4,000,000. The fee was, consequently, $4,000. They paid it under protest, and sued to recover the money, claiming that the law violated Sections 2 and 5, Article 12 of the Constitution. Judge Evans' decision holds the law constitutional, and as there are a number of similar cases pending, this decision secures the state in possession of a considerable sum of fees.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

AT THE NEW CENTURY CLUB.

Gov. Ashley's Proposed Amendment to the National Constitution.

The New Century club met with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Macomber, Monroe street, last evening. Gov. Ashley was present and on invitation of President Parks gave a little informal talk in further elucidation of his proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States as set forth in his address on "The Impending Political Epoch," which the members of the club have been reading. The discussion was in the line of questions which Gov. Ashley answered at length, as to the practicability of the changes his plan suggests, and their ultimate effect upon our present political methods.

"The impending questions, national and state, which in the immediate future will confront us and demand solution," says Gov. Ashley, "are the equitable distribution of political power; the guarantee to every qualified elector of a secret ballot, and an absolute equality of individual power for that ballot; the nomination and election of the president and all public officials, who are to be chosen by popular vote, by a direct ballot without the dictation of conventions, or the intervention of an intermediate body such as our present college of electors for electing the president."

The changes which Gov. Ashley's suggested amendment to the constitution would bring about include: Nomination and election of president of the United States and senators and representatives in congress, by a direct vote of the people by ballot; the abolition of the office of vice-president; the abolition of caucuses and all nominating conventions; the election by popular vote of a national college of deputies, composed of members from each state, equal in number to its senators and representatives in congress, who shall be charged with the conduct of all national elections in their respective states, and who shall, in case of the death, disability, or removal of the president, elect a successor to serve out his term within 30 days.

The system, once introduced, Gov. Ashley believes would be operative with equal ease and good results, in national, state, or municipal elections, and it would "smash" the machine from the ward caucus slate to the cut-and-dried bargains which are carried out in our national nominating conventions. It would destroy "bosses' from the "great leaders" to the "ward heelers," and reinvest in the individual voter that sovereignty on which rests a democratic government.

A vote of thanks was tendered Gov. Ashley by the club at the close of the meeting. The New Century club will meet again on Friday evening, January 22, with Mrs. Edward Bissell, 1861 Summit street. Annual election of officers will then take place, and a mixed program will be offered, the preparation for which is in the hands of the executive committee.

INCENDIARY FIRES.

Greensburg, Pa., Jan. 9.—A fire, believed to be the work of an incendiary, was discovered early this morning in the basement of Sowash & Fink's drug store at Jeanette. The Cook block, valued at $12,000, and nine other buildings—stores and residences—were either destroyed or badly damaged. The total loss will exceed $25,000.

"CY PRIME" IS DEAD.

Cincinnati, Jan. 9.—John Dean, who impersonates Cy Prime in The Old Homestead, died this morning of grippe. He contracted a severe cold while attending the funeral of the actress, Miss Mary Bird, who was burned to death Monday night. This is the fourth death in the theatrical profession in this city during the past week.

Coughs and hoarseness.—The irritation which induces coughing immediately relieved by use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Sold only in boxes.

ONE MASS OF SCALES.

Afflicted 3 Years by Dreadful Skin and Blood Disease, with Intense Pain and Loss of Hair.

All Other Remedies Fail. Relieved Instantly and Cured in 4 Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

I have a few words to say regarding the CUTICURA REMEDIES. They have cured me in four weeks' time from a Skin and Blood Disease which I have had for over three years. At certain times, my skin would be very sore, and always kept cracking and peeling off in white scales. In cold weather my face was one mass of scales. When in the cold air the pain was intense; it would almost bring tears to my eyes, and my blood also being in a poor condition, with a loss of hair. I have tried every known remedy that was recommended to me, but it was of no use, and gave me very little benefit. So, hearing of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, I concluded to give them a trial. The first application gave almost instant relief. In a few weeks' time I found myself cured, and I am thankful for what they have done for me. Your CUTICURA REMEDIES are a blessing to those who may have the opportunity to use them. I can recommend them to any one.

He Shrinks from Washing

So do woolens and flannels, if they're not washed properly. Try the right way. Get a package of Pearline, and do as directed. Your things won't shrink, and they'll be softer, brighter, and better, than ever before. That's the beauty of Pearline—washing is not only easier, but better and safer. Things that you wouldn't dare to trust to the wear and tear of the washboard are washed perfectly with Pearline. You save work, wear, time and money with it, but you can't do any harm.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 313 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Also for improving Maumee Avenue from Broadway to Prouty Avenue by grading the sidewalk beds on each side of said avenue to the established grade and providing the necessary drainage, etc.

Also for improving Sixteenth street from the northeast gutter line of Monroe street to the southwest gutter line of Jefferson street by grading the same its full width to the established grade and providing the necessary drainage, culverts, etc.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid for that part of the improvement lying in the street intersections in cash within ninety days after the acceptance of the work, and the remainder of the cost will be paid in an assessment levied upon the abutting property in two installments, in ten days after the passage of the assessing ordinance, and the remainder in one year thereafter, excepting the improvement of Maumee avenue, which is payable within ten days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written out in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matter specified in this notice, must deposit with the city clerk on each bid the sum of one hundred dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that, if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until the first estimate of work done, (or double the amount of deposit,) is reported to the common council.

Bidders will be required to indorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer.

Bidders must specify the time within which they will commence and complete the work after the acceptance of their bid.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the city civil engineer.

The council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the council.

C. H. DURIAN,
City Clerk.

Time and Its Worries—A Missionary Box—Game for Children—Scrap Basket—"Pointers."

THE ENDLESS STORY.

By Mary Ainge De Vere.

A freshening wind, an April shadow,
A bird-song, trilling clear and fast;
A gleam of violets from the meadow,
A builded nest, and the Spring is past.

Warm, golden blooms that break asunder,
The calm of a full perfection won;
A lightning spark, a crash of thunder,
And scattered rose-leaves—the Summer's done.

Light thistle-downs through the blue air flying,
Swift-wandering leaves of gold and red;
An empty nest by the wayside lying,
A mateless bird. Ah! fair Autumn's dead.

A bright, white world, and soft snow-wreaths blowing,
And fringed eaves dripping in the sun;
Then floating ice to the great sea going,
And the endless story is again begun.
Brooklyn, L. I.

'TIS THE WAY.

Visions come and go again,
Leaving in their airy train
Just a rythm, soft and low,
Of their movements to and fro—
Something like an old refrain.

'Tis the way with summer rain;
'Tis the way with joy and pain
'Tis the way with all we know
Of the lives of mortal men.
Just to come, then go again.

Business Training for Girls

One of the repulsive stories of the day which has necessarily been made a matter of public record is that of the trial of Dr. Graves for the murder of one Mrs. Barnaby, who died presumably of poison. It is not necessary to refer to the details of the crime here, but there is one lesson connected with the story that women should take to heart.

In the course of the trial a disinterested person, whose only connection with the unfortunate woman seems to have been that he once advised her relative to the investment of some capital, testified under oath that Mrs. Barnaby asked him this question:

"If I invest here, can I get power of attorney to sign my own checks?"

Poor, rich, foolish woman. To have many thousands of dollars absolutely her own, to dispose of as she saw fit, and to know so little of business as to ask such a question as this. Is it not plain that she would fall a victim to the first adventurer sufficiently cunning to be able to win her confidence?

When will fathers and husbands learn that it is a cruel kindness to keep their womankind from a knowledge of business?

There is nothing more certain than this: That whatever may be the home surroundings of one's girlhood, however fortunate may be the girl or woman in having natural male protecters bound to her in ties of love or blood, her future is never assured unless she has learned how to take care of herself, and of all that is hers, in case the need of her standing alone ever arises.

There is nothing the majority of women so much lack as knowledge of business. There is nothing, it seems to me, that should be allowed to stand in the way of their receiving such training in business methods and principles as will at least enable them to hold their own in the world. If the fathers will not see that their daughters receive this training, then let the mothers see to it.

Out Upon the Calendar.

New Year's Eve—December 31, 1891: The old date for the last time. Who says this shall be the last day of the old year and that on the morrow a new year shall have begun? What will mark the change that we should cry, "The King is dead, long live the King." The calendar is altogether wrong. Why shouldn't we welcome the new year in the merry spring time when all the earth is fresh for action and for work; or, when the closing autumn days see the flowers dead, the fields garnered, the work accomplished, why didn't the year die then, instead of lingering on through ever shortening days till the calendar should proclaim the year is dead? Must the year, too, have its helpless infancy and equally helpless and fruitless old age?

If one ever thinks at all they cannot escape a few New Year's eve reminiscences. The hopes for the future, the doubts of the past will come in the hollow down by the flare, and when the closing year adds another to the years of one's life there is somewhat of sadness and awe withal, not that the years are so many, but so fruitless, so barren of purpose. "As the hour is so is life." As the days bring to us our opportunities, so they carry them away and there is no return trip on their route, and even as we look backwards we are pressed steadily forward.

"For what is time? The shadow on the dial, the striking of the clock, the running of the sand, day and night, summer and winter, months, years, centuries—these are but arbitrary and outward signs, the measure of Time, not Time itself. Time is the life of the soul."

Yet we fritter it away and breath a sigh of relief that another stupid day is ended.

Sandusky, O. PRAC.

POVERTY AND RICHES.

If you should look at the bright side,
And I should look at the dark,
Tho' you were as poor as a little church mouse,
And I owned a horse and carriage and house,
You'd be richer than I, for mark:

You'd be happy with simple pleasures,
While I was counting my woes,
Moody and sour and all forlorn.
Blind to beauty and finding a thorn,
Where you were finding a rose.

A Woman's Time.

And so Aunt Hepzibah thinks it is "Time" we women want most. Maybe she is right about it, but while you quoted the truism of "waste not want not"—why don't you also quote "if we take care of the minutes, the hours will take care of themselves?" I read in the papers a short time ago, of the man who was dissatisfied with the divisions of time in the calendar, who did not see why, while they were about it, they could not have put 14 days in a week and consequently as many again in a month and a year—or something to that effect. That will pass as a joke. There is no way to lengthen the hours of daylight or the seasons of bud, blossom, harvest and rest.

Would not a systematic using of the time we have, be better than to have more granted? Hepzibah implies this when she talks of time wasted, and her proverb is a true one. Our Hostess speaks of the system by means of which a certain gentleman accomplishes much. To have one's work methodically arranged is half the battle of housekeeping.

One of the best lessons of my life was the privilege of boarding in a family for several months where this was every day proven. A family of ten, varying to sixteen much of the time, on a farm where milk and butter must be attended to, and only the mother and one daughter (the other daughter in school in the city, coming home every Saturday) to do the work, with what help the two little boys gave; a large well furnished house to keep in order and music lessons for the daughter once a week—but let me tell you everything was kept in its place—and no matter how busy a day of churning, baking or whatever else it might be, the dinner hour found the house in order from cellar to chamber, and the ladies with nicely combed hair, and tidy garments, were ready to dish up an excellent dinner when the bell rang for the hungry men. And when the dinner work was finished, the afternoon was free for sewing or music—or pleasure. It was always so, the morning's work never lapped over, and covered up the rest and pleasure of the afternoon.

The way to have time, is to make time, and this can only be done by taking care of the minutes—do the next thing when it is the next thing to be done, and not loiter about it; it aggravates me to see a person loiter around and take two hours to do a piece of work they could perform in half an hour if their heart was in it, and then complain that they never "have time." What many women need is what they have missed—the training that brings with it a habit of "working with a right good will." PATIENCE PRIM.

Scrap Basket.

London Tid Bits has taken to offering prizes for "the best definition" of things. It will be able to compile a little dictionary when the counts are all in. The last is the definition of "a baby." The prize was two guineas and this was the winner:

A tiny feather from the wing of love, dropped into the sacred lap of motherhood.

Some of the others were quite as good. For instance:

A tiny drop in the vast ocean of human life, capable of immense possibilities and surrounded by great mysteries.

A little stranger with a free pass to the heart's best affections.

A daylight charmer and a midnight alarmer.

A padlock on the chain of love.

'91 and '92.

Another year has rolled along
With its varied, eager, active throng,
Wishing to drink from a brimming bowl—
Minds bent toward a different goal.
Alert with searching glance they look
On every page of the open book
Of life; hoping mayhap there to see
Their long-sought Opportunity.
ZENOBIA.

Next things are often skipped for some more pleasant duty, but they will turn up again, and often to our regret that they were postponed. P. P.

Whichever way the wind doth blow
Some heart is glad to have it so;
Then blow it east or blow it west,
The wind that blows, that wind is best.

A little commendation keeps the family wheels going smoothly through the most troublous times. Because excellence is invariable it is none the less an effort, and it is pretty hard to have it taken as a matter of course, and noticed first when the discouraged energies have begun to flag and the standard is a little lowered.

Annie Payson Call in a paper on the Greatest Need of College Girls, in the January Atlantic, says:

English women are showing a marked superiority over American women in the college career. They are taking prizes and attaining marked intellectual distinction, not because their scholastic advantages are greater nor because of superior intellectual gifts, but because of better physique, more normal nervous systems, and consequently greater power of endurance.

One went East, and one went West
Across the wild sea-foam,
And both were on the self-same quest.
Now one there was who cared for naught,
So stayed at home:
Yet of the three 't was only he
Who reached the goal—by him unsought.

A Chiel among Us, Takin' Notes.

A bonny Scotch lady whose home is in the city of Gourock on the Clyde, and who is spending some months with relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y., writes to a friend of some of the things that impress her in America. She says:

"Streets in your cities have a beautiful rus-in-urbe appearance with so many fine trees bordering the streets. Your Madison street (she was looking at the Toledo album) must look fine in the leafy season. What a lovely proportioned tree your maple is, clothed or bare, with their story of the months an open page. At home, in Scotland, we are getting alive to the beauty of verdure amidst stones and mortar. Many of our new streets have 'saplings in a row.'

"How literally the good will to men is carried out here at the Christmas season. 'Donating' seems to be a marked feature of the American character. And the practical form the interchange of gifts, take in many instances, gives a stranger something to think about. One gentleman I observed, gave his large class of boys in Sunday school each a good umbrella, and as Jupiter Pluvius was having his innings outside just at that time, and in a business way, too, the suitability of the present was strongly en evidence."

Yours,
CATHARINE B——.

Thanks from Fern Leaf.

A word was said in the Household before Christmas, of a box that was to be sent Fern Leaf, whose home is away on the sparsely settled plains of northwest Minnesota. Ever since Fern Leaf went among the pioneers and cast her lot with them her great, kind heart has led her into missionary work. It is chiefly through her inspiration and effort the Sunday school has been kept up and the little ones in the scanty homes in her district have been sufficiently clad to make it possible for them to attend. Lisbet, of the Household, succeeded in collecting together a box of warm clothing which she sent her for distribution. Fern Leaf writes to express her "thanks to the kind donors for the articles which were very acceptable." Lisbet has taken the trouble to send to each of the donors a list of all the articles contributed, with names of givers. The box was franked through by the American express. The thanks are very earnest and sincere and the Household is glad to have been the medium of such interchange.

Relating some of her experiences, Fern Leaf says in her letter to Lisbet:

"I thank you and your rector's wife for your love and kind sympathy, and wish there were more like you. One lady wrote she wished she could help us, but her aid all went to New York city. God knows they need it, but when I think of the great wealth there to aid them—and none such here to hear the sobs of the hungry and thinly clad—then I pray God to open the hearts of these hardened ones who hold their purse-strings tightly. Last evening a letter from our old pastor's wife made my heart ache so, for she is one of the refined, gentle creatures, that homespun seems unfitted to, and she, too, is glad of the crumbs even."

And this suffering and need is in Minnesota and the large cities of that state are moving to send a boat load of supplies to Russia. It is well to do this, but cannot the great generous, bounteous west first heed the cries of its own children? Woman's hands are weak in the midst of such great need. It seems that there must be a radical wrong somewhere, that a part of God's creatures have such largess of wealth they can only pile it away and label it "mine," while others as worthy go cold and hungry for the need of a small portion of what it represents.

In the Buddhist's Bible, the greatest criminals are those who hoard wealth. Has modern Christianity anything to learn from this?

A Game for the Girls.

Dear Little Girls of the Bee Household: This year of grace, 1892, is—I presume you have heard your bigger sisters speak of it—Leap year; you are too small to propose to whom you would if you were older, and consequently you are compelled by your dear papas and mammas to spend these winter evenings in doors, for which you may well be thankful. But why would it not be a real pleasant affair on some of these evenings when your larger sisters are out with the young men, to all join hands and form a ring around some smart little child who stands in the middle. Each holds a handkerchief in right hand. Then all join hands, holding them as high as you can and go around once and stop. Then drop hands and stand still. Each one then throw your handkerchief as hard as you can, without folding it up in a ball, over the head of the child who is in the center. The one opposite will throw it back, and all the handkerchiefs will be kept flying at once in a perfect storm.

The child who is in the ring will try her best to catch one of the handkerchiefs as they fly across. This is no easy matter, as those in the ring must try their best to prevent her by catching them and keeping them in rapid motion. When, at last, she succeeds, the owner of the captured kerchief must come into the ring with her and they hold it up with their right hands raised and held high. The child who stands next to the loser of the kerchief must then lead the whole ring under the two uplifted hands and twice around.

Then the first child will take her place in the ring, leaving the other in the center and the kerchiefs taken in hand, the game begins again. These are the lines you can sing during the game:

"Round and round in merry ring
Little children march and sing;
Seize life's treasure as they fly—
You can catch them if you try."

If you try this game some evening, I will venture to say, that, in years to come you will look back, especially in some year which figures can be divided by four, and say you appreciated the "handkerchief game" much better than you do indulging the rights and privileges of young ladyhood, even in leap year.

CLEAR THROUGH CANADA.

A Direct Line From Vancouver to Halifax.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 9.—The Canadian Pacific railroad is constructing a line in a southerly direction from Regina and this line will connect with the Valley City extension of the Soo line, in which the Canadian Pacific owns a controlling interest. When this connection is made there will be a continuous track from Vancouver on the Pacific coast by way of Regina, Valley City, Minneapolis and Sault Ste Marie to Halifax on the Atlantic coast. This will then be the route utilized by the Canadian Pacific in transporting its immense traffic from ocean to ocean.

POWDERLY ON IMMIGRATION

Many Others as Bad as the Chinese.

The Grand Master Workman Thinks the Time Has Come to Call a Halt on Foreign Countries.

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—General Master Workman Powderly has issued an address on the Chinese immigration question in which he says had not the tide of Chinese immigration been checked there would not be a white laborer now at work west of the Rocky mountains, while those east of that range would be retreating before barbaric hordes who work for almost nothing.

Mr. Powderly makes a strong plea for the restriction of immigration "of a kind tha is scarcely better than that which flows from China." He says:

"I believe the day has arrived for those who love humanity to protest against the further immigration of these people. The United States and Canada should no longer constitute the safety valve of Europe.

"Self preservation is the first law of nature, and the time has come to state fearlessly and unequivocally that the immigration of to-day is a curse to those who are here as well as to those who come."

In conclusion Mr. Powderly urges all members of the order to work for the restriction of immigration and election of United States senators by direct vote.

TWO FAILURES.

New York, Jan. 9.—Charles Weisker, importer and dealer in artificial feathers and flowers, 544 Broadway, assigned today to Wm. Mohrman, with preferences to Phillips, Karcher & Co., for $1,393; to Dingerstedt & Co., for $1,008; to Joseph Goodman, for $1,000, and Edward Goodman for $1,000.

DEATH OF AN OLD SOLDIER.

Wapakoneta, O., Jan. 9.—(Special)—Yesterday Fred Guese, aged 75 years, a veteran soldier of four wars, died very suddenly at his residence of a complication of diseases. He received the largest pension for a private soldier of any one in this country, receiving the limit of $72 a month for total disability. He leaves a large family of children, who will profit by the pension law.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9.—Wm. Wright, ex-cashier, and Frank Gilman, ex-teller, of the National Exchange bank of Lexington, have been indicted by the grand jury for embezzlement. They are accused of misappropriating $33,495 of the bank's funds. W. H. Chippen, the bookkeeper, is indicted as accessory.

RESIDENCE BURNED.

Wapakoneta, O., Jan. 9.—(Special)—While the family of Aaron Haroff, residing eight miles east of this city were visiting their neighbors, their beautiful residence caught fire and was entirely destoyed with its contents by fire. Loss about $6,000. No insurance.

Tne Safe Way.

Many reliable chemists and sanitarians have expressed the opinion that the continued use of a baking powder containing ammonia injures the health, neutralizing the gastric juice, causing dyspepsia, and eventually producing an unhealthy and blotched complexion.

This may not be the result in all cases; but why take the chances of it, when, by using you get a powder entirely free from ammonia and one that will do more and better work.

BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS

A Great Time Among New York Democrats.

Grover Cleveland the Center of Interest.

His Splendid Response to the Toast, "The Day We Celebrate"—Cheered to the Echo by Enthusiastic Banqueters.

New York, Jan. 9.—At the seventy-seventh anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans at the Hoffman house last night, Grover Cleveland spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen—No one can question the propriety of the celebration of this day by the organization whose invitation has called us together. Its right to celebrate on this occasion results from the fact that it is an organization attached to the doctrines of true democracy, having a membership composed of business men, who, in a disinterested way, devote themselves to honest party work, and who labor for the growth and spread of the political principles which they profess.

This anniversary has not gained its place as a festival day in the calendar of democracy by chance nor through unmeaning caprice; nor is it observed by the democratic party merely because a battle was fought on the 8th day of January many years ago at New Orleans. That battle itself had no immediate political significance, and only considered solely as a military achievement in comparison with many other battles fought by Americans both before and since, it need not be regarded as an event demanding especial commemoration.

The democratic zest and enthusiasm of our celebration of the day grows out of the fact that the battle of New Orleans was won under the generalship of Andrew Jackson. So, while the successful general in that battle is not forgotten to-night, democrats, wherever they are assembled throughout our land to celebrate the day, are honoring the hero who won the battles of democracy, and are commemorating the political courage and steadfastness which were his prominent characteristics.

It is well there are occasions like this where we may manifest that love and affection for Andrew Jackson which have a place in every democratic heart. It is needless to attempt an explanation of this love and affection. They are democratic instincts. So strong is our conviction that Jackson's democracy derived its strength and vigor from the steadfast courage and honesty of purpose and the sturdy persistency which characterized the man, that we willingly profess the belief that these same conditions are essential to the usefulness and success of the democratic party in these latter days. Thus, whenever party principles or policy may lead us, we have constantly before us an unquestioned example of the spirit in which our work should be undertaken.

It may not be unprofitable for us at this time to recall some incidents in the career of Andrew Jackson and note their bearing upon the position of our party in its present relations to the people. We may thus discover an incentive for the cultivation and preservation of that Jacksonian spirit which ought to belong to democratic effort.

When Gen. Jackson was sent with troops to protect our border against disturbers of the peace whose retreat was in the Spanish province of Florida, he notified our government that if it was signified to him that the possession of the Floridas would be desirable to the United States, it should be forthwith accomplished. He only believed he had the assent of the government, but in that belief, and because his word had been given, he never rested until his military occupation of the territory was complete.

The democratic party has lately declared to the people that if it was trusted and invested with power, their burdens of taxation should be lightened, and that a better and more just distribution of benefits should be assured to them. There is no doubt concerning our commission from the people to do this work, and there is no doubt that we have received their trust and confidence on the faith of our promises. In these circumstances there is no sign of Jacksonian determination and persistency in faltering or hesitating in the cause we have undertaken. If we accepted the trust and confidence of the people with any other design than to respond fully to them, we have been dishonored from the beginning. If we accepted them in good faith, disgrace and humiliation await us if we relax our efforts before the promised end is reached.

At New Orleans Gen. Jackson attacked the enemy as soon as they landed and fought against their making the least advance. It never occurred to him that if he yielded to them a foot of ground or gave them a moment's rest his opportunity to defeat them would be promoted.

We who are proud to call ourselves Jacksonian democrats have boldly and aggressively attacked a political heresy, opposed to the best interests of the people and defended by an arrogant and unscrupulous party. The fight is still on. Who has the hardihood to say we can lay claim to the least Jacksonian spirit if in the struggle we turn our backs to the enemy or lower in the least our colors?

President Jackson believed the United States bank an institution dangerous to the liberties and prosperity of the people. Once convinced of this, his determination to destroy closely followed. He early began the attack, utterly regardless of any considerations of political expediency or personal advancement except as they grew out of his faith in the people, and giving no place in his calculations for any estimate of the difficulty of the undertaking. From the time the first blow was struck until contest was ended in his complete triumph, he allowed nothing to divert him from his purpose, and permitted no other issue to divide his energy or to be substituted for that on which he was intent.

The democratic party of to-day, which conjures with the name of Jackson, has also attacked a monstrous evil, intrenched behind a perversion of governmental power and guarded by its selfish beneficiaries. On behalf of those among our people long neglected, we have insisted on tariff reform and an abandonment of unjust favoritism. We have thus adopted an issue great enough to deserve the individed efforts of our party, involving considerations which we confess to believe lie at the foundation of the justice and fairness of popular rule.

If we are to act upon our declared belief in the power of that Jacksonian spirit which was the inspiration of our party in the days of our great leader, we shall be steadfast to the issue we have raised until it is settled. The steadfastness we need will not permit a premature and distracting search for other and perplexing questions, nor will it allow us to be prompted or driven by the enemy into new and tangled paths.

We have given pledges to the people and they have trusted us. Unless we have outgrown the democratic spirit of Jackson's time, our duty is plain. Our promise was not merely to labor in the people's cause until we should tire of the effort or should discover a way which seemed to promise easier and quicker party ascendancy. The service we undertook was not to advise those waiting for better days that their cause was hopeless. Our engagement was to labor incessantly, bravely, and stubbornly, seeing nothing, and considering nothing but ultimate success. These pledges and promises should be faithfully and honestly kept. Party faithlessness is party dishonor.

Nor is the sacredness of our pledges and the party dishonor that would follow their violation, all we have to consider. We cannot trifle with our obligations to the people without exposure and disaster. We ourselves have aroused a spirit of jealous inquiry and discrimination touching political conduct, which cannot be blinded; and the people will visit with quick revenge the party which betrays them.

I hope, then, I may venture to claim in this assemblage that, even if there had been but slight encouragement for the cause we have espoused, there would still be no justification for timidity and faintheartedness. But with the success we have already achieved, amounting to a political revolution, it seems to me that it would be the height of folly, considered purely as a question of party management, to relax in the least our determination and persistency. If we suspect anywhere in our counsels, compromising hesitation or a disposition to divert the unity of party efforts, let us be watchful. The least retreat bodes disaster; cowardice is often called conservatism, and an army scattered into sections invites defeat.

We have preached the doctrine that honesty and sincerity should be exacted from political parties. Let us not fall under the condemnation which waits on shifty schemes and insincere professions.

I believe our countrymen are prepared to act on principle, and are in no mood for political maneuvring. They will not waste time in studying conundrums, guessing riddles, or trying to interpret doubtful phrases. They demand a plain and simple statement of political purpose.

Above all things, political finesse should not lead us to forget that at the end of our plans, we must meet face to face at the polls the voters of the land with ballots in their hands, demanding as a condition of their support of our party fidelity and undivided devotion to the cause in which we have enlisted them.

If, inspired by the true Jacksonian spirit, we hold to the doctrine that party honesty is party duty, and party courage is party expediency, we shall win a sure and lasting success through the deserved support of a discriminating, intelligent and thoughtful people.

A HALF BLACK FIEND.

Murderer Charles Watkins Executed.

He Left His Wife to Live with a White Woman and Then Killed the Woman He Deserted.

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 9.—Charles Watkins was hanged in Salem, six miles from here, for the murder of his wife. The murder took place an April 7, 1891. Watkins, a light mulatto, was head waiter in the hotel Felix, in this city. He became enamored of a white woman, Ida Fribel, of Milwaukee, and went to live with her at the house of his uncle, three miles east of Salem.

His legal wife, Susan, a negress, followed the couple there on the evening of April 6, and that night Watkins shot at her inflicting a wound in her hand.

On the following morning he took her to some woods near by and beat her brains out with a rock.

Watkins fled, but was captured in Wilmington, N. C., on July 23.

He was betrayed by a cousin to whom he had written.

Since his conviction on November 20, he feigned insanity, pretending to believe that he was Christ. A jury in lunacy adjudged him sane. Within the past few days Watkins gave up the insanity dodge and acted in a manner that gave the jail officials the belief that he would cause trouble.

REAL MERIT

Is the characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is manifested every day in the remarkable cures this medicine accomplishes. Druggists say: When we sell a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to a new customer we are sure to see him back in a few weeks after more—proving that the good results from a trial bottle warrant continuing its use. This positive merit Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses by virtue of the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in its preparation, and by which all the remedial value of the ingredients used is retained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is thus peculiar to itself and absolutely unequalled in its power as a blood purifier, and as a tonic for building up the weak and weary, and giving nerve strength.

SULLIVAN'S SWEAR-OFF.

He Will Attempt to Keep Sober for a Year.

Portland, Ogn., Jan. 9.—John L. Sullivan said yesterday: "I have stopped drinking intoxicating liquors. I have sworn off for a year, and I intend to keep the pledge. I would like very much to have a go with Slavin, but it looks very much now, after all his statements to the contrary, that he is trying to avoid a match with me. June 1 my theatrical tour comes to an end and I would like to have a match arranged with Slavin and myself, to take place the middle of September. I would be willing to fight before any club of standing for the largest purse. I prefer New Orleans. I have empowered Charlie Johnson to make a match if he can."

NO CAUCUS.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 9.—The joint democratic caucus of the legislature, owing to the large number of legislators who were instructed on the question, indefinitely adjourned the senatorial caucus.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Charleston, Mo., Jan. 9.—A man named Scott, from Kansas, stepped off a train at Allanville, a station 35 miles south of here, to see his wife, who was visiting her mother there. Without cause or provocation, so far as known, Scott on entering the house shot and killed his wife and afterwards turned the weapon upon himself and committed suicide.

Cleared away—all the troubles and ailments that make woman's life a burden to her. She's relieved, cured, and restored, with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Periodical pains, weak back, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, all "female complaints," are cured by it. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

It's a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, imparting vigor and strength to the entire system. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine—not a beverage.

If you're a tired, nervous, or suffering woman, then the "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine that's guaranteed, in every case, to bring you help. If it doesn't give you satisfaction, you have your money back.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Leavitt's Burlesque at the Opera House To-Night.

Splendid Attractions at the Theaters Next Week—Opera, Comedy, and Some Melo-Drama.

An evening of burlesque is on at Wheeler's to-night when M. B. Leavitt's European company will present the new extravaganza, of which the Philadelphia Herald speaks as follows:

"An audience as large as the house would permit of witnessed a superior specialty and burlesque performance at the Empire Theater last night. A stage full of people, all talented in their lines of effort, kept the house convulsed with interest and laughter. The gallery at times was disposed to be riotous, but that was only because it was enjoying itself so much it couldn't keep still. The Spider and Fly is a melange of tune, dance, and pantomime, helped along with scenery bright and new from the painter's brush and gowns and other girl harness just out of the seamstress' bandbox. The fun gallops along at a rattling rate, and there is no time to sleep. A number of artists in the cast are straight from the London Alhambra and the entertainment lacking the tables and the smoke in the pit, is reminiscent of that famous English theater. There is much music during the evening, familiar miscellany well chosen and well sung."

Poor Jonathan.

On next Monday, January 11th, Conried's Comic Opera company will sing the great New York "Casino" success, "Poor Jonathan," at the Wheeler opera house.

"Poor Jonathan" is said to have an undercurrent of the impossible bordering upon the ludicrous, but from a musical standpoint it is a gem of airy and refreshing harmony at times bordering upon a higher order of music than is generally heard in comic opera.

The theme consists of the unhappiness of a Croesus, "Rubygold," the mishaps of a cook, "Jonathan," with whom an exchange is made of wealth and position, dependant upon the one who sings a certain refrain being compelled to suicide, the sudden exaltation of a medical protege through the wiles of an impresario actuating Rubygold to take the step he does.

Upon this theme the composer has reared a series of pretty solos and choruses. In the third act a cadet drill by the chorus is a marked hit, the manual and fancy evolutions being admirably executed.

The Danger Signal.

Miss Rosabel Morrison and her company will be the attraction at the People's theater all of next week, and there is every indication of a very large week's business. Miss Morrison is well known here, having appeared in the city last season as the Marguerite in the famous production of Lewis Morrison's version of Faust. Her play this year runs in different lines, and is a play for the people.

The Danger Signal introduces a number of original characters, all well played and being interpreted by a very strong company have in every case met with the highest commendation.

The scenery and mechanical effects are not merely introduced for effect, but have a direct and lucid comprehensive connection with the plot. A monster locomotive—a fast freight train—a rotary cyclone, snow plow and telegraph office in perfect working order are some of the notable effects introduced, and the scenery is new and bright and the company is in every respect worthy of consideration.

First Production of "Men and Women."

Charles Frohman's company of New York will appear at Wheeler's next Tuesday and Wednesday in De Mille and Belasco's great play, "Men and Women." This celebrated play, by the authors of "The Wife," "Lord Chumley" and "The Charity Ball," was presented for 250 consecutive nights in New York and six weeks at the Columbia theater, Chicago. This organization is composed of 23 people.

The plot of "Men and Women" is simple. Israel Cohen is president of a New York bank. Wm. Prescott is the cashier. Both love the same woman, Agnes Rodman, who pledges herself to young Prescott, believing him the soul of honor and above reproach. Edward Seabury, the assistant cashier of the same bank, the Jefferson National, is engaged to Dora Prescott, sister of William, and the two young men are devoted friends. Both have been speculating through Arnold Kirke, a Wall street broker, and while Seabury is successful, Kirke, in the long run, fails. William, losing through this failure, bonds to the amount of $100,000, the property of the bank. Calvin Stedman, the counsellor of the bank, loved Dora Prescott, and for that reason determined to ruin Seabury, his rival. The bank is on the eve of failure through the misappropriation of the funds mentioned, and Seabury is accused by Stedman, and openly denounced as a thief at a secret meeting of the board of directors. The institution is eventually saved by one of the directors advancing a sum sufficient to tide over its difficulties. The cashier confesses his guilt and a new life and happiness is opened to him.

"Tar and Tartar."

The representative American comic opera, the "Tar and Tartar," will be at Wheeler's next Friday and Saturday, January 15 and 16, for the first time in Toledo. Ever since its first production in New York city last spring the opera has been a hit, the unanimous verdict being that at last home talent has come to the front, and a comic opera written that is the equal of any of the French or German works, which have for so long had the call. Bright music, pretty girls, sweet voices, striking costumes and beautiful scenery, together with an unlimited quantity of that king of farceurs, Digby Bell, who has, in the part of Muley Hassan, the shipwrecked sailor, the greatest opportunity of his life, go to make up a most enjoyable performance of opera comique.

Although Mr. Bell has the chief role in the "Tar and Tartar," the Askin-Rork opera company is not a star organization, but is a stock company, and the only stock opera company in the country today. Besides Mr. Bell there are a number of artists who, each in his or her line, are worthy peers of his, notably Marion Manola, the charming and erratic queen of prima donna, Laura Joyce Bell and Hubert Wilke.

Among the other members of the company are Josephine Knapp, Hilda Hollins, Maud Hollins, Fred Frear, Chas. Wayne, Chas. Meyers and Chas. Jones. The chorus is composed of a lot of pretty girls and handsome men.

"A Midnight Bell."

The best and most entertaining emanation from the fertile and clever brain of Charles Hoyt is "A Midnight Bell," which is not a farce but a genuine American comedy. It made a pronounced hit in this city two seasons ago and returns to Wheeler's opera house next Thursday evening with the same cast and elaborate scenery which has characterized its success all over the country. "A Midnight Bell" is more pretentious in its dramatic claims than the several other plays of Hoyt that have frequently been presented here. In this play he has succeeded in producing comedy by quieter and more refined methods than he has used before. There is a pretty story of love, avarice, pathos and a little villainy gives strength to it.

Pimples, blotches and sores and their cause is removed by Simmons Liver Regulator.

SHOT WHILE DRUNK.

Dennison, Tex., Jan. 9.—Thomas Ash was shot and killed by B. N. Carter. Ash was drunk and had entered, it is supposed, by mistake, the residence of Mr. Carter. Ash was a switchman in the employ of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway. His parents are said to be well-to-do residents of Washington, D. C

The people's preference—Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Why? Because it never disappoints.

For nervous affections, such as neuralgia, sciatica, etc., Salvation Oil is without a peer.

That Awful Disease.

Petersburg, Ind., Aug. 8, 1890.

Dr. Bergen, City:

Dear Sir—I have been a victim to that awful disease known as asthma, all my life, and very often I would be down with it—not able to be out of the house—and have tried everything I could hear of, but they never did me much if any good. I was finally persuaded to try your cure. So, after taking a few bottles of it, I was entirely free from asthma and have not had any since and don't feel that I ever will. I always keep a bottle on hand, but don't think I will ever have occasion to use it. I can cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers of asthma.

Believe me your true friend,

MALLE LAMB.

Never was the advancement of ideas and the harmonious blending of new shades more definitely shown than in the novelties in carpets which we are exhibiting. There is not a color, a shade, not even a tint, which we cannot show you, and where formerly you were confined to the higher priced goods if wanting anything stylish, you can now suit yourself AT ANY PRICE. In our line of Ingrains, the judicious blending of terra cotta, electric blue, salmon, drab, brown and the new shades of green has achieved results which cannot fail to please lovers of pretty carpets. The prices as low as ever, and one can find most anything you wish in colors and designs.

GARZA, THE REVOLUTIONIST.
"Garza, the Mexican revolutionist, who is creating so much stir along the Rio Grande, is one of the gamest men I ever met," said Congressman Crain at Chamberlin's. "He looks the typical frontier desperado, yet he is not a rude, illiterate fellow, as some might imagine. He is fairly well educated, and prior to his late bold break was running a small newspaper, printed on the Texas side, but in the Spanish language.
"Garza has been in countless private brawls and is a lucky fellow to be alive, for he has been pierced by many a bullet. The uprising that he has fomented will shortly subside, for President Diaz will put it down with an iron hand."—Washington Post.

NOT POSSIBLE TO MANY ARTISTS
Mr. Frith says, in his "Life of John Leech," that the artist, during his connection with Punch, contributed over 3,000 drawings to that periodical, and received some £40,000 in payment for the same. As Leech's work on Punch extended over 23 years, it follows that he drew from this source alone an average annual salary of very nearly £1,740.

A TOLEDO DISCOVERY
THAT IS HAILED WITH DELIGHT IN BOTH EUROPE AND AMERICA.
A Revolution in the Treatment of Catarrh, Throat and Lung Diseases.

Rumors of this forthcoming discovery have already reached the great medical specialists of Europe, but the first authentic announcement of the real nature of this remarkable revelation has been reserved for our readers, as the discovery was made and perfected by one of Toledo's distinguished citizens.
"As is well known by nearly all of your readers," said this great discoverer to the scribe, "the nasal cavities, the throat and bronchial tubes, the oesophagus, stomach and bowels, all have a mucous membrane lining. When any portion of this membraneous lining, as for instance that of the nasal cavities, becomes diseased by atmospheric changes and a general running down of the system, it naturally follows that the disease will, if not checked, spread itself over other portions of the membrane. It is in this way that the catarrhal poison eventually produces a diseased condition of the throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, and often the stomach. Of course these last named diseases have their origin from many other causes besides catarrh, and here is where the mischief is frequently done by some so-called catarrh specialists who naturally decide that nearly all chronic troubles are caused either directly or indirectly by catarrh. For this reason it is very necessary to be treated by a skilled specialist in all chronic diseases, as the causes are so complicated as to mislead those understanding only one or two chronic ailments.
"The secret of the success of this remarkable discovery for the cure of catarrh is in the fact that the process consists of the inhalation of medicated gases into all the remote cavities of the head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, where no form of liquid or liquid spray can possibly reach. These wonderful gases medicated with redistilled extracts from the vegetable kingdom coming in contact with the entire surface of the diseased membrane, neutralizes the catarrhal poison and the diseased dead tissue sloffs off, to be supplanted by a healthy membrane. These same medicated gases are breathed through the lungs into the blood, which is thus purified from the catarrhal poison and enriched so as to sustain the new and healthy mucous membrane. Another wonderful advantage of this inhalation treatment for catarrh, throat and lung trouble is the fact that the medicine is conveyed to the diseased parts and into the blood in its natural state without passing through the chemical changes of the stomach.
This INHALATION process can be applied to patients either through the medium of the discoverer's large automatic, hydraulic inhalation machine at his office or by means of a smaller inhalation machine charged monthly with medicated gases for home treatment by invalids or others who cannot conveniently go from home for treatment. Different medicated gases are used in this inhalation process for the cure of catarrh, throat and lung troubles, and also for la grippe, the germs of which are eradicated in every instance by this wonderful treatment of Dr. Kalkhoff, the great European specialist, at 505 and 507 Summit street, between Oak and Orange. Dr. Kalkhoff has determined to give the benefit of his wonderful inhalation process on terms that will make it possible for nearly all sufferers to avail themselves of its remarkable curative powers. This beneficent discovery will not only save the people who avail themselves of it, from the ravages of catarrh, la grippe, throat and lung troubles, but also from the deadly effects of that poisonous drug, cocaine, now so generally used by some catarrh specialists on account of its quick results. While the dangerous cocaine will make the worst stuffed up head and nose feel clear as a bell for a short time, it frequently produces blood poisoning, a confirmed cocaine habit and paralysis of the muscles of the throat. The inhalation process is mild and harmless, yet wonderful and lasting in its effects.
